Debate alters little

Nicaragua policy looks the same

By JOANNE OMANG
and
DON OBERDORFER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A week of intense debate in Congress on American policy toward Nicaragua has raised the political temperature in Washington but has not altered the U.S. role in Central America.

Analysis

This week's excitement in the House and Senate provided a lesson in the interplay of domestic politics and foreign policy, demonstrating again that in a showdown, both the policy-makers and the politicians worry as much about how a controversial policy proposal looks as about how practical it may be.

Republicans led by President Reagan sought to make the debate virtually a test of sentiment on communism, while Democrats led by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., tried to paint aid to "contra" rebels fighting the Nicaraguan government as the first step toward a war like the one in Vietnam. Thursday Secretary of State George P. Shultz restated the Vietnam analogy to suit administration purposes:

"Our goals in Central America are like those we had in Vietnam: democracy, economic progress and security against aggression," he said. "Broken promises. Communist dictatorship. Refugees. Widened Soviet influence, this time near our very borders. Here is your parallel between Vietnam and Central America."

It is significant for the future that most Democrats probably would agree with Shultz's goals for Central America, and many also would accept his description of the situation. Virtually no member of the House or Senate defended Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government during the debate.

But, just as in Vietnam, the increasingly divisive question is what means the United States should use in Nicaragua to achieve the goals of democracy, peace and progress.

The week's five major congressional votes ended with no new policy decisions.

Stallings parts company with senators over aid

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Rep. Richard Stallings, D-Idaho, parted company with his Idaho counterparts in the U.S. Senate Wednesday when he voted to deny $14 million in U.S. aid to Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

Sens. Steve Symms and Jim McClure voted Tuesday in favor of President Ronald Reagan's bill to send $14 million in military support to the Contras, but the aid was defeated 303-123 in the House after an amendment changed the focus of the aid.

Stallings voted for the first amendment, which put $10 million of the money into aid for Nicaraguan refugees and $4 million into a peace plan devised by Mexico, Venezuela, Panama and Colombia.

Stallings voted against a later amendment to put all the funds back into military support for the Contras.

In the final vote on the amended bill, Stallings acted to kill all aid to the Contras.

"In the final analysis the most persuasive argument for me was the lack of support in the region for the Contras and the desire by the countries in the region to devise and institute their own peace plan," Stallings said in a Wednesday press release.

"I would urge the president to consider various economic and trade pressures including revocation of "Most Favored Nation" trade status before the United States becomes militarily involved in that country," Stallings said.

Stallings said the United States should continue pressuring the Sandinista government to keep promises made during the revolution. He said the U.S. should also use its influence to support the regional Contadora peace plan.

The neighboring countries that developed the Contadora Plan and would be most affected by Nicaraguan expansionism have not supported military aid for the Contras, Stallings said.

Stallings aide Paul Pugmire said Thursday military support for the Contras will be discussed again later this year when the president's 1986 military budget comes up for discussion. Pugmire says Reagan's budget has $28 million in support for the Contras built into it.

"A day with (Nicaraguan President) Daniel Ortega and a Spanish translator hardly makes a person an 'expert' on Nicaragua. Too many of our members of Congress vote for the Sandinistas based on such flimsy knowledge," Symms said in a Wednesday press release.

Symms aide Rusty Butler said Symms called the defeat of the aid bill "a disaster." Butler said Symms feels very strongly that the Contras are indeed "freedom fighters," as Reagan has called them.

In a pre-taped press statement, McClure said "People forget that in southern Idaho they are closer to Managua, Nicaragua than they are to Portland, Maine. It is not halfway around the world, it's on our doorstep, it's in our hemisphere, it's just south of our border."

"I hope people understand that this revolution in Nicaragua is not just a local revolution being supported by people who did not like the Dicatator Somoza, it has progressed beyond that to the point that there is no question that it is externally directed, externally supported, and externally financed by the Soviet Union, Cuba, and their eastern block countries ."

GOP dodges a showdown over budget

By DAVID ESPO
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Senate Republicans, apparently shy on votes, backed out of an early, high-stakes showdown with Democrats Thursday night on a $52 billion package of spending cuts for 1986 that includes a slowdown in the rise of Social Security benefits.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, after maneuvering for most of the day toward the test vote, abruptly decided to postpone the roll call until today or later.

"It's a very close vote, I don't think there's any question about that," the Kansas Republican said. "It could be one vote, one way or the other," on the plan supported by President Reagan.

Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd waged a war of nerves throughout a long day of parliamentary maneuvering, first delaying the showdown, then offering an immediate vote in a move that apparently caught the GOP off guard.

"I understand (Dole) is having a little problem with a couple of votes," said Byrd, "I regret that we won't be here to have this vote tonight."

Then, virtually taunting the GOP leader, Byrd added, "I believe he would have won tonight . . . but I'm not sure of that."

Replied Dole, "I'm not sure either."

Dole thus moved abruptly to end the day's session without the early show of support he had wanted for a plan to squeeze $295 billion in spending cuts from the budget over the next three years.

The blueprint calls for a hike of nearly $23 billion in defense spending — less than the president originally sought — no tax increase and more than $30 billion in domestic cuts. Many domestic programs such as student loans and farm price supports would be cut deeply, while others, such as the Job Corps, revenue sharing and federal subsidies for Amtrak, would be eliminated or phased out gradually.

But the most controversial provision would slow the rise of Social Security benefits for the next three years by holding increases below the expected rate of inflation. The savings would be nearly $22.7 billion over three years.

"We feel that we should take the time to discuss what bothers us about the Reagan budget — cuts in Social Security, in research, in education ... in the economic foundation of this country's future," said Byrd, D-W.Va.

Reagan lobbied individual senators by telephone from the Oval Office, although one man he spoke with, Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, later said he was "on the fence."

Dole said he was "fairly close" to having enough support to prevail. "We're going to try to turn it around tomorrow. If it takes a month to turn it around, we'll take a month," he said.

Several Republicans said Dole was unable to count on the support of at least three GOP lawmakers. And with a fourth, Sen. John East of North Carolina hospitalized and Democrats expected to vote solidly against the proposal, that would leave the GOP leadership on the losing end of a roll call. The Republicans have a 53-47 voting edge in the Senate.

U.S., Soviet veterans renew peace pledges

By TYLER MARSHALL
The Los Angeles Times

TORGAU, East Germany — Trading souvenirs and memories and calling for a renewal of the friendship that flickered briefly between their two countries 40 years ago, Soviet and American war veterans returned here Thursday to mark the day they linked up on the Elbe River in the fading days of World War II.

Older and grayer, with ruddled faces but unfarnished ideals, the veterans issued a joint call for peace, a rekindling of the "spirit of the Elbe," then drank and ate together much as they did 40 years before.

For the soldiers of the Red Army, pressing Nazi Germany from the east and U.S. forces pushing it from the West, the link-up meant their own survival, and for Europeans it signaled the death knell for Adolf Hitler's Third Reich.

"We spoke different languages, but our feelings were the same," recalled Joseph Slopek of Munro Falls, Ohio, on the day he and his American buddies drank vodka, danced, and took their "oaths on the Elbe" to never fight again.

Thursday, about 300 Soviet and American veterans rededicated themselves to the oath during com-

Americans spring forward on Sunday

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Church, work or other obligations will come an hour early for most Americans on Sunday with the annual arrival of daylight-saving time.

Time will skip ahead from 2 a.m. to 3 a.m. in all or part of 48 states, in an annual exercise delaying the arrival of the morning sun but adding daylight to the end of the day in order to extend the time for barbecues, yard work, golf, tennis and other outdoor activities.

This shift in time — first instituted during World War I — continues until the last Sunday in October, when clocks will stop for an hour at 2 a.m., restoring that long-since forgotten hour of sleep lost in April.

Today, most Americans take the change from "standard" to "daylight-saving time" in stride, with only occasional grumbling when they forget to change clocks and arrive an hour late for church.

Daylight-saving time was instituted in 1918 to save fuel used in lighting in the evening. It was a step to improve the economy of the nation during wartime.

In various forms, it has remained in effect in most states since then, despite complaints of problems caused for farmers, officials trying to draw up transportation and radio and television schedules and the evening entertainment business.

Over the years, daylight time came to be accepted in some areas and not others, and had varying starting and ending times from state to state, resulting in considerable confusion and finally in congressional action in 1966.

That's when the current dates of the last Sunday in April through the last Sunday in October were set.

However, states were given the right to ignore the system if their legislature voted to do so — and that has occurred in Hawaii and Arizona. In addition, Indiana, which is divided by a time zone, observes the change in only part of the state.

Complications follow all 4 implants

So far, not good with artificial hearts

By PAUL RAEBURN
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — All of the four patients in the United States who have received permanent artificial hearts have developed infections, weakened immune systems and anemia.

All have had subsequent bleeding problems and kidney malfunctions, and three have had difficulty breathing.

Two have died, the most recent of them on Wednesday night after only 10 days of life with the mechanical heart.

The picture is not bright, as Dr. William C. DeVries, the surgeon who implanted the artificial hearts, agrees.

On Wednesday, hours before the death of 62-year-old artificial heart recipient Jack Burcham, DeVries gave participants at a scientific conference on heart replacement a dim view of the artificial heart experiment so far.

He recited the list of complications in the four patients. The average hospital stay for the patients is 90 days, with 30 to 60 of those days spent in intensive care, he said.

Nevertheless, DeVries is optimistic. This is an experiment, he said, and experiments frequently fail. But the experiment will continue.

"As soon as we find another patient that's adequate, and everything's OK, we'll go ahead and do another one," he said after Burcham's death.

DeVries has permission from the Food and Drug Administration to do another three implants of the Jarvik-7 heart before he must report his findings to the FDA and seek approval for additional implants.

Despite the rather dismal results of the experiment so far, the FDA has no plans now to intervene to stop it, said John Villforth, director of the FDA's Center for Devices and Radiological Health.

"As far as I know, there's no data coming into the agency that would sound the alarm," Villforth said Thursday.

The agency could step in to stop the project immediately if it determined that continued investigation would have no benefit, Villforth said. "It's unusual but not unheard of to do that," he said.

Many of the questions surrounding the artificial heart experiment at Humana Hospital Audubon in Louisville, Ky., arise from the blurring of the line between conducting scientific research and employing compassionate, emergency measures to save lives.

The research that DeVries is doing is intended to determine the safety and effectiveness of the Jarvik-7 artificial heart, one of a variety of artificial hearts now under development around the world.

It is not primarily intended to save people's lives, as the family of William Schroeder, the second heart recipient, has found out.

"Bill thought he'd either die or be better," his wife, Margaret, told Life magazine.

After a series of debilitating strokes left Schroeder able to speak only with difficulty and unable to remember things from one day to the next, Margaret said, "I see it as more of a research experiment . . . If he had anticipated the hardship that this has been on the family, he might not have done it," she said.

Schroeder, who received his mechanical heart on Nov. 24, is the only artificial heart recipient to promises that was instrumental in winning a victory for the White House in the Senate was nullified when the overall aid request failed to pass in the House. That restored a status quo that had been in effect since last October.

The last U.S. checks to some 15,000 armed contra insurgents fighting the leftist Sandinista government went out last May, and Congress refused this week to provide any more.

However, the new political heat over Central America may be pushing both sides toward a real compromise a few weeks down the road.

Republicans have warned repeatedly that only the insurgents stand between growing Soviet influence in Central America and the need to commit U.S. troops to stem the tide.

They assert that military pressure from the rebel "freedom fighters" has produced concessions from Nicaragua toward regional peace and that only more pressure can change the current government's policies.

But most congressional Democrats won't accept that analysis. Many who have given Reagan what he has wanted on other controversial issues such as the MX missile have drawn the line on Nicaragua.

They now have blocked further assistance to the insurgents five times since late 1982, arguing that no matter how repellent the policies and the practices of the Sandinista government, the United States has no business financing a guerrilla army to overthrow it by force.

Again and again in the debate, Democrats argued that the contras and their 3-year-old war were brutally immoral, illegal and counterproductive, serving only to reinforce the Sandinistas in their repressive behavior.

Yes, they said, use pressure on Nicaragua, but make it diplomatic, political, economic — anything but military by proxy.

The White House, faced with a humiliating defeat, backed down.

Five days before the first Senate vote, the only one that Reagan won, he agreed to ask only for "non-lethal" aid, excluding only weapons and ammunition.

But that was not enough.

Following Capitol Hill conferences over the weekend, eight Senate Democrats joined by several Senate Republicans met Reagan and his senior aides in a highly unusual eight-hour conference at the White House Monday.

Nothing was resolved, but early Tuesday morning White House national security affairs adviser Robert C. McFarlane began drafting a presidential letter aimed at wavering Democrats to deal with some of their concerns.

But the House rejected the compromise, with many members arguing that the letter was full of loopholes and did not really change much.

Asked by skeptical reporters if the letter is legally binding, Shultz said immediately after the Senate vote that "the president of the United States, Ronald Reagan, has made these statements to Sen. (Robert J.) Dole and Sen. (Robert C.) Byrd and he will abide by them, no doubt about it."

But Thursday White House spokesman Larry Speakes said "the whole letter was conditional on passing legislation" to aid the contras.

Other officials said the letter was nullified by the final negative vote.

memorative ceremonies that drew much of the town's population, East German dignitaries, and a contingent of Soviet officers.

"We reaffirm our pledge made on April 25, 1945, to friendship between the United States and the Soviet Union so there is no more war," said William Beswick, vice chairman of the U.S. Army's 69th Division's Veterans Association.

But the absence of official American participation at the celebration was an unspoken reminder of the reality of U.S.-Soviet ties.

The United States did not send an official representative in protest to the killing last month of U.S. Army Maj. Arthur D. Nicholson Jr. by a Soviet sentry in East Germany.

Moscow has reportedly expressed regret in private for the incident but has not issued a formal apology.

"I kind of wish they (the United States) had been here, but I understand about Maj. Nicholson," said Dr. William Robertson, a Los Angeles neurosurgeon, who as a young lieutenant, was the first American to make contact with the Soviets at Torgau. "It is a difficult thing."

Leroy Wolins, vice commander of the Veterans for Peace, a second U.S. group here, noted that it took only a few minutes for the Soviets and Americans to agree on a joint statement for the meeting.

"Today is a reminder that it is possible to get along," he said. "This won't solve world problems today, but it can establish the atmosphere to solve them tomorrow."

At a lunchtime reception, veterans mixed freely, exchanging tales of the day 40 years before.

Albert Honyak, now a Cleveland, Ohio plumbing contractor, recalled dancing with a Russian woman, conspicuous, he told a Soviet veteran, for the machine pistol she carried and her especially robust figure.

"I think she still lives in Moscow," the Russian replied with a laugh.

Slopek exchanged a dollar bill for a one ruble coin with a former Soviet captain, an exchange that he had also carried out in his first meeting with a Russian.

During a hour of formal speeches, Robertson and Alexander Silvashko, the Russian lieutenant he first met at the eastern edge of a bridge over the Elbe here 40 years before, stood next to each other and chatted through an interpreter.

Since their first meeting, Robertson had met Silvashko twice in the Soviet Union for anniversary-related celebrations, including a recent trip when he was greeted by a group of children from the secondary school near Minsk where Silvashko is the principal.

Torgau itself treated the reunion as a holiday, with thousands of its citizens crowding around the small plaza in front of the U.S.-Soviet monument and lining the bridge that brought the two armies together.

have left the hospital. He and his wife are now living in a hospital-owned apartment across the street from Humana Hospital Audubon. Schroeder is receiving 24-hour nursing care.

DeVries is one of two American surgeons engaged in long-term research and development of artificial hearts. The other is Dr. William S. Pierce of the Hershey Medical Center in Hershey, Pa.

Pierce recently received approval to begin testing an artificial heart of his own design called the Pennsylvania State University heart. He has been working on the development of the heart for 15 years.

DeVries likes to point out that heart transplants, which are now considered by many health officials to be routine, were not immediately successful.

Dr. Christiaan Barnard's first heart transplant recipient lived 18 days.

If Humana's artificial heart program is viewed as a research program, failures and setbacks are to be expected.

Others, including doctors, view the artificial heart as a means of prolonging lives in desperately ill patients who are awaiting heart transplants.

One who takes that view is Dr. Jack Copeland of the University of Arizona in Tucson. He recently used an untested artificial heart made by a Phoenix dentist to keep a patient alive for 11 hours until a donor heart could be found. The patient died shortly after receiving the human heart transplant.

The intent in that instance was clearly not to study the heart but to save a life.

Even though the patient died, Copeland came away from the experience a fervent believer in artificial hearts. He has begun training in the implantation of the Jarvik-7 artificial heart.

DeVries takes pains to emphasize the difference between Copeland's compassionate use of an artificial heart and long-term experimentation. DeVries is concerned, in part, about how the public perceives the operation.

If the public sees the program merely as an effort to save individual lives and thus decides it is a failure, the program may be unable to continue, DeVries believes.

"The public will tell how much of what can be done will be done," he says.

Jury sought in Lafferty trial

PROVO, Utah (AP) — A judge and attorneys Thursday qualified 15 potential jurors for the first-degree murder trial of self-proclaimed prophet Ron Lafferty, accused of killing his sister-in-law and her infant daughter.

However, after interviewing 28 prospective jurors, defense attorney Richard Johnson complained that 4th District Judge J. Robert Bullock wasn't specific enough in his questioning.

Bullock told the remaining 35 potential jurors that the selection process would resume at 8:30 a.m. today. He said he hoped to have a jury empaneled by Monday.

Bomb alert clears cathedral

NEW YORK (AP) — Hundreds of people were evacuated from St. Patrick's Cathedral Thursday night when a man who said he had a bomb approached the altar and held police at bay for nearly two hours before he surrendered.

The man, who police said was distraught at being unemployed and wanted to talk with Cardinal-designate John J. O'Connor, was carrying only a plastic bag containing an alarm clock inside a shoebox.

Innocent, say holdup suspects

SEATTLE (AP) — Two more men have pleaded innocent to racketeering charges that say they robbed armored cars and committed other crimes as part of a neo-Nazi group's network of violence.

Gary Lee Yarbrough, 29, of Sandpoint, Idaho, and Robert E. Merki, 50, of Boise, Idaho, entered the pleas Thursday before U.S. Magistrate John L. Weinberg, said Kim O'Neal, Weinberg's law clerk.

They were the fifth and sixth defendants to enter pleas in a 20-count federal indictment against 23 people, who authorities say were members of the neo-Nazi group The Order, a militant splinter faction of the Idaho-based Aryan Nations.

Food policy under attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lack of a comprehensive U.S. food policy contributes to world hunger and causes "serious disarray and danger" in the food system at home, the United State Catholic Conference told Congress on Thursday.

Archbishop Ignatius Strecker of Kansas City, Kan., representing the conference, called for more development aid for poor nations and for changes in U.S. tax policies to help owners of small and medium-sized farms here.

Peru runoff election still on

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The Marxist contender for the presidency of Peru said Thursday he would quit the campaign for a runoff election, but the Social Democratic frontrunner, Alan Garcia Perez, refused the offer.

According to unofficial counts, Garcia won nearly half the votes in the presidential election on April 14. Peru's constitution requires a runoff between the top two vote-getters if no candidate wins a majority, and the final vote count has not been completed.

At a short news conference, Garcia said he appreciated the offer by Alfonso Barrantes Lingan, the Marxist mayor of Lima who was runner-up with about 22 percent of the votes in the nine-man race.

Freighter sinks in Red Sea

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP) — A freighter loaded with 14,000 tons of steel sank in the Red Sea after the captain reported an explosion. Lloyd's said Thursday it probably hit a mine, but shipping sources here said they doubted that.

The ship's 20 crew members were rescued.

Mariner II, registered in Panama, sank Wednesday morning in deep water about 350 miles north of Jidda, Roger Lowes of Lloyd's Shipping Intelligence in London, affiliated with the insurance exchange, said it "almost certainly" struck a mine.

Shipping officials in this Red Sea port said, however, that the captain mentioned only an explosion and did not say whether it came from inside or outside the 16,270-ton vessel.

Mines sown in the Red Sea and the Gulf of Suez damaged 19 vessels between July 9 and Sept. 20 of last year. Who planted the mines was never determined.

Germans back missile safety

HEILBRONN, West Germany (AP) — The defense minister said Thursday there can be no guarantee that Pershing 2 missiles will be trouble-free, but modifications will remedy "as far as humanly possible" a fault that caused a fatal accident.

Manfred Woerner spoke to a meeting in the Heilbronn town hall while about 500 anti-missile demonstrators shouted and whistled outside.

An electrical fault in one of the unarmed nuclear missiles caused a fire Jan. 11 that killed three American soldiers and injured 16 at the U.S. Army's Red Leg missile site near here.

Soviets conduct test in Siberia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union carried out an underground nuclear explosion Wednesday at the Semipalatinsk test area in Siberia, a Department of Energy spokesman said Thursday.

The spokesman, Ben McCarthy, said seismic signals presumably resulting from an underground nuclear blast were recorded by the U.S. Atomic Energy Detection System. The blast occurred at 7:57 p.m. EST Wednesday, McCarthy said.

Arabs say ferry will aid cause

AQABA, Jordan (AP) — The leaders of three Western-oriented Arab nations held a shipboard summit Thursday and inaugurated a ferry service they said would help reunite the Arab world.

King Hussein of Jordan, President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt and Sultan Qaboos of Oman launched the line on the third anniversary of Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai, which it had occupied since 1967.

The meeting was the sixth between Hussein and Mubarak since Jordan restored ties with Egypt last September, breaking an Arab diplomatic boycott of the Arab world's most populous nation.

Egypt had been ostracized after it signed a 1979 treaty with Israel following the U.S.-brokered Camp David agreement which called for the Sinai's return.

Oman was one of only three Arab countries which did not sever relations with Egypt following that treaty.

Both Hussein and Mubarak stressed the 1973 Arab-Israeli war as the root of the Sinai's recovery.

Carolina senator served nation well

Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina may have seemed just another self-effacing Southern lawyer-politician, rumpled in dress and smooth in demeanor, a critic of civil rights legislation and a protector of Southern interests.

But events in crisis sometimes bring out different sides of a man. So it was with Ervin, who emerged during the Watergate hearings of 1973 as a dedicated American constitutionalist and defender, in his own way, of the institution of the American presidency.

Ervin died this week at 88, content that he and others had steered the nation well through the Watergate scandal that led to the resignation of then-president Richard Nixon, a scandal which Ervin considered the greatest tragedy to strike the country since the Civil War.

As chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Ervin was the natural pick to head the Senate Watergate hearings, and he did so with aplomb, assurance and confidence.

He firmly prevented those hearings from being either an inquisition or a petty farce. He explained the constitutional principles in terms people could understand, and he went to the heart of the substance with his questions on the Watergate coverup: What did Nixon know, he asked, and when did he know it?

Steadily, he kept pressure on the impeachment inquiry, then under way in the House. Together with federal District Judge John Sirica and a great American newspaper, The Washington Post, he kept attention focused on the conduct of the presidency and the men who served it.

In the end, Nixon resigned. Ervin was wise enough to see, as he maintained in subsequent writings and interviews, that the nation had barely avoided a constitutional crisis. But he took no pleasure in the resignation.

From time to time in American history, there have been great crises which have tested the nation's durability. In each of those times, one or more leaders has emerged as a key figure, often from relative obscurity.

Sen. Sam Ervin, the folksy constitutional lawyer from North Carolina, was such a man who, in a time of great need, served his country well.

The Vietnam War

Lessons of conflict loom over Central America

Henry Steele Commager

It is 30 years now since, heady with victory over Germany and Japan, the United States blended into the Vietnam War.

It is 20 years since President Johnson (partly by chicanery) induced the Congress to pass the fateful Tonkin Gulf resolution giving him a free hand to inaugurate a full-scale war in Vietnam. It is 10 years since the collapse of Vietnam and the victory of the Viet Cong forced our desperate withdrawal from Southeast Asia.

What does this tragic chapter of our history have to teach us?

First, the folly of supposing that providence -- or history — has somehow appointed the United States to be at once the conscience and the policeman of the world, and authorized it to bustle about the globe imposing our concepts, policies and solutions on other peoples and nations.

The Founding Fathers, to be sure, thought that "the American was a new Adam in a new paradise," but they were content to let the rest of the world profit by our example.

Second, and with particular reference to Vietnam, it teaches the folly of deluding ourselves that we were not only an American and a European power, but an Asian power as well, and that we had both the right and the ability to impose our solutions to age-old problems on the peoples of that vast continent, a people even then in the throes of the greatest social revolution in history.

Third, the folly of assuming that if Vietnam should somewhow embrace communism, the whole of Southeast Asia would inevitably follow — the famous "domino theory," and with it the assumption that if that should happen, it would pose a mortal threat to the United States. (China has now been Communist for 35 years, without posing any threat.)

And why did we delude ourselves that if communism should somehow win out, we had either the right or the power to reverse that tide?

Should we not rather recall that the Europe of the Holy Alliance — the world of Metternich and of Alexander I of Russia — took precisely that view of the threat from the new American democracy to the new nations of Latin America and to Europe, but had the good sense not to intervene.

Fourth, the danger — familiar enough in history — of becoming the mirror of our adversaries, particularly when those adversaries do not share our respect for the traditional concepts of "the laws of war." That is, to an alarming degree, what happened in the Vietnam War. It proved to be a war brought on by deception and fought with a ruthlessness unprecedented in our history.

We used napalm to destroy people and Agent Orange to destroy nature. We launched Operation Phoenix, which jailed thousands of prisoners and killed about 18,000 of them. We inflicted horrors like the My Lai massacre on noncombatants. We dropped 7 million tons of bombs on a country the size of Montana.

Finally, the outcome of the war should reconcile us to "defeat," for it illustrates a valuable lesson of history: that there are some wars so pernicious in their consequences that defeat is better than victory.

We need not turn to the old world to demonstrate this, to the experience of Germany in two world wars, for example. We have our own experience. Who, now, even in the deepest South, would reverse the verdict of Appomattox and rejoice in an independent Confederate States of America, still retaining the institution of slavery?

There is, I think, little doubt that future historians will conclude that the Vietnam War was one we should never have fought, or that, having fought it, it is one that we well to lose.

It wasted our resources, human and material; it undermined our tradition of the supremacy of the civil to the military authority and our moral tradition of honor and magnanimity.

It is because we have not yet adjusted ourselves to that conclusion that we are once more in danger of plunging into a conflict -- this time in Central America -- in which we will be politically and morally isolated from the rest of the world and which, whatever the outcome, will cost us more in self-respect and in the respect of other nations than we can afford to pay.

Henry Steele Commager, professor of American history at Amherst College, is the author of numerous books, including the "The Empire of Reason."

Playing roulette with future

In response to Rep. Mack Neibaur's statement that "Education should share the bad economic times with the good times," such a statement seems, on the surface to be fair. However, education is not a corporate enterprise that can vote not to pay dividends in bad economic years. To underfund education is to play roulette with the future of our society.

To quote a colleague, "When teachers are laid off, they can find new jobs elsewhere; but students cannot find new educations." So when school districts consider cutting transportation, extracurricular sports programs and laying off teachers to make up insufficient funds, plummeting students into classrooms with enrollments of 30 to 35 students, where they may have to share texts and desks, the situation is not "better than no education at all." It is akin to "no education at all." Excellence in education cannot take root in overcrowded classrooms with bare bones curriculums. And schools have already shared as much of the economic burden as they can. They have cut out so much that one teacher in our district spent $1,000 of her own money last year to supplement insufficient supplies. I have always had to spend my own money to supply such essential items as glue, construction paper, pens, supplementary texts, ditto masters, etc. Many schools have cut everything they can now, short of laying off teachers and thereby eliminating classes.

The old adage of "pay now, or pay double later" painfully applies in education. If we underfund now, we will be forced to deal with an influx of ill-prepared and cynical graduates into the job market (and hopefully most will have graduated). We don't need to be training robots in an assembly-line setting. We need to be educating thinkers to design, build and maintain robots and computers and spacecraft and create new solutions to economic crises.

Funding education at responsible levels will require considerable sacrifices. But education should be the last area sacrificed. Our legislators return home from Boise singing their own praises for holding down tax increases. The irony is that in most Idaho counties taxes have probably increased even more with local property tax levies than they would have with a state sales tax increase. The result is deceitful and unfair to taxpayers and absolutely irresponsible to our children.

Responsibility to ask questions

Why is it that those who claim to be the great patriots of our supposed free society are the first to call for the banishment of those that dare to use their freedom and question our government's policy?

It is in my opinion the first and foremost responsibility of every individual to question human sanctioned authority. To participate in evil whether through conscious loyal support or self-inflicted blind ignorance is still participation in evil. If the German people hadn't bought into Hitler's white supremist ideas they wouldn't be paying the price they now pay. If we don't question our policy makers then we must share in the responsibility for their decisions.

To individually assess our actions and take responsibility for them is an absolute necessity for our spiritual well being and to disregard that responsibility whether as a member of a free or totalitarin society plays toward the destruction of all.

Those that write off their personal responsibility to care about just solutions in international or domestic affairs to blind nationalism or who put selfish economic concerns ahead of environmental responsibility I challenge the validity of your patriotism and say that it might in fact be you who are better suited to live in a totalitarian society. Your actions and your words betray you.

Without rabbits, it's not spring but perhaps lettuce is safe

James Kilpatrick

SCRABBLE, Va. — This is our loveliest spring in at least five years, but something has gone wrong here in Rappahannock County.

I am not thinking of the flicker. I am thinking of rabbits and groundhogs and snakes. They seem to have disappeared.

Animal populations have a way of going up and going down. If man doesn't get too much in the way, predators and disease and weather will combine with rates of reproduction. We observe pendulum swings when deer are scarce, on the one hand, or an infernal nuisance, on the other. Maybe we're simply at a low point in the cycle. I don't know.

But two or three years ago, driving the two miles down to the Woodville post office, I could count 20 rabbits along the way. The little ones were playing hide and seek in the ditch banks and the big ones were sauntering along the road. You could observe half a dozen groundhogs in the same two miles — big guys, cigar smokers, sitting around in their undershirts. And snakes. Last year we had a 6-foot black snake named Francis who lived in the woodpile. Francis doesn't live there any more.

The chipmunk population is way down. We used to have a house covey of 15 to 20 quail, but we haven't heard that unmistakable "bob white!" all spring. We usually rent six bluebird boxes; this year, no takers. The feeding stations have been taken over by subway muggers in the form of cowbirds. A phoebe turned up two weeks ago, and then the phoebe went away.

Clifton Clark, who lives down the road, has a theory about the birds. He notes that the hawk population is way up, and he wonders about the consequences of roadside spraying. There's no question about the hawks. They are all over the sky, hovering in silhouette like airplanes on an identification chart, and then gliding abruptly out of sight. It's true that every summer crews spray the briers and honeysuckle on Route 621, but you wouldn't think so spotty an application of a herbicide would affect everything.

Whatever the cause, there's a kind of letdown in the spring of 1985. The dogwood and redbud are floating through the woods as pink and white as a corps de ballet. Everything has burst into leaf and blossom, including a rich crop of dandelions, and it would be an altogether perfect spring but —. I never thought I would miss the rabbits and groundhogs, for normally we detest them, but I do miss them. Francis, won't you please come home?

I mentioned this flicker. He is trying to tear our house down, and he may make it yet. Tom Geoghegan, who used to be news director for U.S. Steel in Washington, has a cottage across the road. This flicker already has demolished one wing and half of his roof. David Brinkley of ABC lives seven miles away, down the road to Culpeper. While he is in Washington making a living, a couple of flickers are taking out his window frames.

What these bullies have against the press I cannot say, but the press everywhere seems to be held in low esteem and flickers will go with the herd. They are big brutes, with black mustaches and black bandanas; they have neck muscles as strong as hawsers and their pickax beaks are as sharp as stilettos.

Geoghegan is nailing patches all over his place and Brinkley has ordered new window frames. Every afternoon I hammer back the boards our flicker has loosened, but I can't reach the gutters along the roof. He's trying to haul those away too.

It's dispiriting, but not all is lost. On the morning of April 22, a little after 7 o'clock, a flight of evening grosbeaks came through. They were on their way back from Florida, I guess, and looked very snappy in their black and yellow outfits. We have heard, but not seen, a pileated woodpecker. For no apparent reason, because the winter acorn crop was poor, we are overrun with squirrels.

Skunks and raccoons are down, but possums are up. My wife saw a pair of red foxes the other evening; she didn't want to say they were fat, but they were certainly well fed.

So it goes. It all evens out. Eventually the hawk squadrons will diminish, and if the road crews will just lay off the spraying, maybe the quail will return.

My wife, no sentimentalist she, thinks I'm crazy to miss the rabbits. This year, she says, maybe we'll get the lettuce before they do.

James Kilpatrick writes his column, "A Conservative View," from Washington.

Briefly

Reagan ducks Bitburg queries

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House ducked questions about a still-planned presidential trip to a German military cemetery Thursday as West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl thanked President Reagan for "the noble gesture of a friend."

"We are not answering Bitburg questions; there has been no change in the president's plans," spokesman Larry Speakes said, using the name of the graveyard that has embroiled the White House in controversy over the scheduled May 5 visit. The cemetery contains the graves of some 2,000 German war dead, including 47 Nazi SS troops.

Even the president, who sometimes talks about subjects his aides shun, turned aside a reporter's question about whether he was considering changing his plans.

Talks chief counters Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. arms control director Kenneth L. Adelman, challenging Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, said Thursday the United States had discussed "Star Wars" extensively with Soviet negotiators at the recently recessed talks in Geneva.

Adelman, in an Associated Press interview, accused the Soviets of blocking progress in the first round of negotiations, which ended Tuesday in the Swiss city. "It was a very tough round," he said.

"The U.S. came in with greater flexibility and dogged determination to move the arms control process along," Adelman said. "The Soviets came into the first round with greater rigidity and dogged determination to have SDI (the Strategic Defense Initiative) block progress."

Pilot's actions eyed in probe

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The pilot of a Galaxy Airlines plane that crashed in January, killing 70 people, did not appear to have followed normal procedures to escape a stall, the airline's chief pilot told a federal inquiry Thursday.

Capt. Edward McManus said Capt. Allen Heasley, who died in the crash, did not order the wing-flap setting "the way it's taught to recover from a stall" on an Electra.

He said Heasley might not have noticed that his plane was in a stall because it was being buffeted by heavy vibrations.

The four-engine turboprop crashed shortly after takeoff from Reno's Cannon International Airport on Jan. 21.

Republicans continue protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Going to war against Democrats over plans to fill a disputed Indiana seat, Republicans sang "We Shall Overcome" on the Capitol steps, then turned to obstructionist tactics that prompted the House to adjourn Thursday.

"It's clear to me and most members that . . . it's not going to be possible to proceed in an orderly way," said Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., adding that the House was seeking to work on a State Department authorization measure brought to the floor at the request of the Reagan administration.

Republicans agreed at a closed caucus to a "unanimous declaration of war," Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., told reporters, with such tactics as "walking out when the wrong guy is seated."

Money supply takes a big dip

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's basic money supply dipped $300 million in mid-April, the Federal Reserve Board said Thursday, but the measure remained above growth targets.

Analysts were divided on whether the report provided evidence that the Fed had moved recently to accommodate lower interest rates. But they agreed a further shift in credit policy was unlikely until clear evidence appeared on the course of the economy.

In-vitro quads turn out OK

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The four babies believed to be the first test-tube fertilized quadruplets born in the United States were in good condition Thursday despite having lost weight, a hospital spokesman said.

"They're real tiny," said Don Brackenbury of Long Beach Memorial Medical Center. "They're in good condition, but it's a kind of a day-to-day thing with youngsters that small."

The infants, three boys and a girl, were born on April 15. Their mother, Jill Kuzmanic, 27, gave birth by Caesarean section.

At birth, each of the three boys and one girl weighed 2 pounds to 2 pounds 7 ounces, but the weights had dropped to 1 pound 12½ ounces to 2 pounds 1 ounce.

Utah children's use becomes key

'Dial-A-Porn' indictment out

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — In the first federal prosecution of its kind, a 23-count indictment was returned Thursday charging a New York corporation and four individuals with running a pornographic telephone service dialed by some Utah children.

U.S. Attorney Brent Ward, in announcing the grand jury indictments, said "this is the first federal prosecution involving so-called 'Dial-A-Porn' services. Convictions in this case would challenge the phone sex industry which has spread across the country during the past two years."

The indictments charge Carlin Communications Inc., Carl Ruderman, Ira Kirschenbaum, Kevin Goodman and Samantha Fox, all of New York City, with felony interstate transportation of obscene matter. They also are charged with causing obscene communications by means of telephone, a misdemeanor.

The three men and the company are named in 23 counts and Ms. Fox is named in four. If convicted, the defendants could be sentenced to up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine for each felony count, and a $500 fine for each misdemeanor.

A spokeswoman for Carlin Communications referred questions about the indictments to the firm's attorneys, who were not immediately available for comment Thursday.

Ward said an FBI investigation into the calls was launched two years ago following a rash of complaints from Utah parents to the U.S. Attorney's Office, Mountain Bell and the FBI. Ward estimated 50 to 60 complaints were logged and "I would venture to say the calls are continuing."

The indictments say that during 1983, Utah children between the ages of 10 and 16 heard a pre-recorded telephone message containing "explicit sexual conduct." Their parents learned of the calls only after receiving their monthly phone bills, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Lambert.

Korean leader arrives for visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Korean President Chun Doo-hwan arrived Thursday for meetings with President Reagan and other U.S. officials, while critics of his regime renewed protests and announced plans to demonstrate during his 40-hour visit.

State Department spokesman Edward Djerejian has said that during their meeting Reagan and Chun would air their concern over the continuing deployment of North Korean forces.

Wicker talks to Idaho group

BOISE (AP) — The associate editor of The New York Times says Ronald Reagan is committing "a cataclysmic series of political errors" on a planned visit to a German cemetery.

"He would be well advised to cut his losses and decide he won't do it," said Tom Wicker here Thursday. "I'm inclined to believe the president will do that sometime soon."

Wicker met with members of the Idaho Press Club.

Wicker said it isn't particularly new for this country to have "dissident" groups such as northern Idaho's Aryan Nations and its violent offshoot, the militant The Order.

"We've had problems with that sort of thing throughout history and I expect it will remain commonplace for some time to come," he said.

ISU pharmacy given go-ahead

BOISE (AP) — Depsite concern over how construction will be financed, the state Permanent Building Fund Advisory Council has approved initial design work for a new $8 million pharmacy school at Idaho State University.

The decision Thursday came as Charles McQuillen, executive director of the state Department of Education, told the council that the state Board of Education would raise student fees if necessary to insure that all needed higher education construction is done.

Based on recent surveys of the buildings on the campuses of all four state-run colleges, McQuillen said the state will be faced with undertaking a building replacement program that will run $12 million a year beginning in 1990.

The advisory council acted on the new pharmacy school for ISU after receiving formal notification that the Board of Education had endorsed the project. The new structure is critical to retaining accreditation for the school, and state lawmakers did approve money to begin upgrading the academic program at the school as mandated by accrediting officials.

BLM seeks lands enforcement

BOISE (AP) — The Bureau of Land Management has enlisted the help of Ada and Owyhee County sheriff's deputies in a stepped up campaign against illegal use of fragile lands on the Boise Front and in the Snake River Birds of Prey area.

The BLM, in conjunction with other state and federal agencies, has also completed a massive land trade that should improve public access and management along the South Fork of the Boise River below Anderson Ranch Dam.

Restrictions have been placed on both the use of firearms and off-road vehicles in the Birds of Prey area to protect nesting raptors from unnecessary disturbances. The restrictions on vehicle use along the Boise Front are intended to curtail serious soil erosion.

Shippers protest railroad plan

BOISE (AP) — Southwestern Idaho shippers have joined their counterparts elsewhere in the state in protesting a railroad proposal to replace 26 local freight agencies with regional service centers.

"We cannot agree with the Union Pacific that this system completely eliminates the need for a local agent in a highly competitive business involving a perishable commodity," Larry Link of the Idaho-Oregon Fruit and Vegetable Association told the Public Utilities Commission Thursday.

Link, whose association represents 45 shippers in the southwestern part of the state, said his members fear that the elimination of the local agents will impair that access to needed rail service.

The Boise hearing Thursday was the last in a series of hearings held around the state since the railroads made the proposal in December 1983. Commissioner Richard High said a final decision by the commission should come in the next two months.

Firm agrees to repay investors

BOISE (AP) — A Boise firm accused by the state of illegally soliciting investments has agreed to repay more than $10 million in money solicited from investors in several states.

While T. D. Nelson Management and operator Theron D. Nelson admitted no guilt to the allegations made by the state, Idaho Finance Director Tom McEldowney said the firm has agreed to repay investors from Idaho, California, Minnesota and other states and withdraw a pending application for registration of a commodity fund.

Caldwell teen kept in hospital

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Caldwell, Idaho, teenager Tony Shepard, who underwent Utah's first heart transplant operation March 8, was unable to return home as expected on Wednesday because of a mild rejection episode, a hospital spokesman at the University of Utah Health Sciences Center says.

John Dwan said Shepard, 16, had been suffering from cardiomyopathy, a degenerative disease of the heart muscle. Dwan said Shepard would have to remain in Salt Lake City for observation.

Errors get welfare in trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has denied Idaho's request to grant a waiver of penalties for excessive error rates in two welfare benefit programs and ordered the state to pay nearly $1 million because of the problems.

Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret Heckler said Thursday she took the action against Idaho and 24 other states after two years of reviewing their administration of the Aid to Families with Dependent Children and the Medicaid programs.

State officials had no immediate reaction to the decision. Idaho was among only five states to suffer penalties in both programs.

"We have to look at the denial, what they really put in there," said Linda Caballero, who oversees the AFDC program for the Department of Health and Welfare.

While 26 states were assessed the penalties, Mrs. Heckler granted waivers to six states, including Utah, because of what she said was a good-faith effort on their part to correct the problems.

"We would certainly be interested in finding out what they had that we didn't," said Dr. Bill Whiteman, head of Idaho's Medicaid program.

The penalties of $691,000 in the AFDC program and $234,000 in the Medicaid program cover improper benefit payments made during 1981. State officials pointed out that Idaho's welfare assistance rolls at that time were the highest ever because of the devastating economic recession that had hit the state.

McKnight says no

POCATELLO (AP) — Idaho Democrats have asked Terry McKnight, chairman of the Idaho Freedom to Work Committee, for a cash donation to help them defeat the state's right-to-work law.

McKnight says thanks, but no thanks.

The letter from state Democratic Chairman Mel Morgan is part of the party's statewide campaign to garner new members and raise money forthe 1986 elections.

Chrysler sets sales record, earnings decline

By EDWARD MILLER
The Associated Press

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. — Chrysler Corp. on Thursday reported net earnings of $507.6 million on record sales for the first quarter of 1985, an earnings decline of 28 percent from the comparable period a year ago.

Sales were $5.4 billion, a corporate record, surpassing the previous mark of $5.3 billion in the final quarter of 1984.

In the first quarter of 1984, sales were $4.9 billion.

Earnings for the quarter came to $4.18 a common share compared with $705.8 million, or $5.64 a share, a year earlier.

The record sales didn't produce record earnings because Chrysler has exhausted tax credits from heavy losses incurred during its brush with bankruptcy.

Total earnings for the quarter were $725.1 million, but tax bills of $217.5 million left a net of $507.6 million. Chrysler became a taxpayer again late last year.

"After a great last year we're off to an even better start this year," said Chairman Lee Iacocca.

"The doomsayers predicted that Chrysler would have trouble when we had to start paying taxes," Iacocca said. "Even after taxes, our first quarter net earnings top every first quarter Chrysler ever had, except for last year, of course."

Also, the costs of special sales incentives for dealers and car and truck customers took a "fairly heavy" piece out of profit, he said, estimating it at $30 million or more.

Chrysler's profit margin — net income as a percentage of sales — was a healthy 9.4 percent.

General Motors Corp.'s quarterly earnings were down about one-third from a year ago to $1.07 billion and its profit margin was 4.4 percent.

American Motors Corp. reported a first-quarter loss of $29 million. Ford Motor Co. said its earnings statement would be released late Friday.

Iacocca said Chrysler's Japanese partner, Mitsubishi Motors Corp., probably would announce in midsummer the site for a joint venture auto plant employing 2,500 workers.

Mitsubishi is most interested in six sites in four states — Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky. Illinois "may be leading by a little bit," Iacocca said, because of the aggressive efforts of Gov. James Thompson.

Iacocca had Michigan added to the list last week when he visited Mitsubishi in Tokyo. "They've got a shot of it," he said, mentioning western Michigan as the region that looks most interesting.

Chrysler will give a detailed presentation on its Liberty project May 17 at its annual stockholders meeting in California, he said. Liberty is Chrysler's project to apply high technology to car building.

Chrysler and Ford have been making big market share gains against GM since late last year.

The strongest sales area for Chrysler has been trucks, which were up 27 percent in the first quarter compared with a year ago, the best first quarter for truck sales in company history.

Logan center faces second foreclosure

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — Even as efforts are under way to revitalize downtown Logan, a small shopping center in the former J.C. Penney building is facing a second foreclosure in three years.

A trustee's sale of The Emporium was scheduled for Tuesday on the steps of the Cache County Courthouse.

However, the sale was postponed at the last minute when the center's owner, Pihl-Clark Enterprises, Inc., of Salt Lake City, was granted a temporary injunction by 1st District Judge VeNoy Christoffersen.

Attorney Gary Anderson, who represents the center's mortgage holder, Logan Savings and Loan Association, said a May 6 hearing has been scheduled in which Christoffersen is to rule on whether the temporary injunction should be continued.

Senators advise Reagan to shape U.S. trade goals

By MIKE ROBINSON
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Senate Democrats and a key Republican said Thursday that President Reagan should not seek a new round of international trade talks until he shapes clear goals to sharpen the competitive edge of U.S. goods in world markets.

"Before Congress gives the green light to a new round of trade negotiations," it must find out "what has gone wrong in international trade and what the administration intends to do about it," Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., chairman of the Commerce Committee, told the National Press Club.

"You can bet that our competitors know what they want," Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, told a separate news conference. He said Reagan had not done the homework that should precede new trade talks.

The comments came as Reagan is preparing to leave next Wednesday for West Germany for a three-day economic summit among leaders of the seven industrialized democracies. They are expected to call for a new round of trade negotiations.

The opposition to the idea followed a month in which Capitol Hill, expressing anxiety over a U.S. trade deficit that soared to $123 billion in 1984, has been pressuring the administration to use tariffs and quotas if needed to break down Japanese barriers to American imports.

Danforth said an agreement produced by a new round of trade talks would "go nowhere" unless Congress smoothed the path through Capitol Hill that it would face before going into effect.

Danforth said such "fast-track" procedures should not be extended until the administration not only forms clear negotiating goals but deals with problems ranging from "the bloated dollar" to enforcing U.S. rights under current international trade rules.

Bentsen told the news conference called by a 13-member, Democratic trade policy group that administration talk of a new round of negotiations was "an attempt to divert attention from the trade deficit."

First Interstate reports sharp drop in earnings

BOISE (AP) — First Interstate Bank of Idaho's profits fell about 41 percent in the first quarter, primarily because of non-performing agricultural loans, said Kay Taylor, the bank's chief financial officer.

First Interstate on Wednesday said its earnings for January through March were $666,000, down from about $1.1 million during the corresponding period last year.

The announcement by First Interstate — Idaho's third-largest bank — follows reports of substantial earnings declines in the first quarter by the holding companies of the state's two largest banks, Idaho First National Bank and First Security Bank of Idaho.

The decline in earnings "is so pervasive with any banks that have . . . agricultural customers," Ms. Taylor said. "The agriculture sector is really hurting."

She attributed the First Interstate profit reduction to the depression in land prices and few buyers for farmland. First Interstate is carrying forfeited farmland until it can find a buyer, and, as a result, it is not collecting interest on loans, Ms. Taylor said.

"There are not that many willing buyers. It's not selling as quickly as we would like it to," she said. "You can't believe the deals that have to be made. It's not uncommon to see discounting of about 30 percent on farm values."

Ms. Taylor said she expects First Interstate earnings to remain lower this year than in 1984 because of the farm loans, but she expects an earnings improvement again in 1986.

She said the bank has boosted its staff to monitor agricultural loans and is being careful "about any new arrangements we are going into with farmers."

Despite the problems, she said the bank is in a good capital position and has a $6.5 million loan-loss reserve, which is about 1.2 percent of loans outstanding.

As of March 31, deposits were $682.59 million, up 4.2 percent from a year earlier, and loans were $540.88 million, a 10 percent increase. Assets were $790.49 million at the end of the quarter, up 2.7 percent from a year earlier.

First Interstate Bank of Idaho serves 22 communities and is an affiliate of First Interstate Bancorp, Los Angeles.

New insurance policy for homeowners

Sylvia Porter

Within a few months — by the end of 1985 — an updated and expanded homeowners insurance policy will be in effect throughout the country, to the benefit of many policyholders.

The new policy requires no change in the premium you pay and contains both good and bad news for you. The good news: the contract significantly raises the coverage for personal liability, increases the coverage for medical expenses and the dollar limits for many common household items. The bad news: also increased are the deductibles you must absorb before you can collect on a claim.

The policy was designed by the Insurance Service Office, a data-gathering and rate-advisory organization for property casualty insurers. The ISO develops standard policy language for basic insurance contracts, which individual companies are free to use or modify.

The new homeowners policy contains several provisions that carry over to renters policies, too. These developments represent the first major revision in the standard homeowners policy since 1976.

"For eight years the basic limits had been the same," explains David E. Ostwald, vice president for corporate communications at the ISO. "It made sense to raise these limits to account for the impact of inflation. The new policy provides much better coverage."

Eventually, about 40 percent of all homeowners policies issued will be this one, including those issued by most companies that sell through independent agents. The contract has not yet been introduced in all states; that is expected before the end of the year.

Note: Your premium, if your policy is affected, will remain what it would have been had the contract remained unchanged.

The key changes:

- Personal liability coverage jumps to $100,000 from $25,000.
- Medical payments to others are covered for as much as $1,000 per person, double today's $500. This pays for medical costs for events that may or may not be your liability but which occurred on your property.
- Cooperative apartments will be eligible for coverage under the policy originally designed for condominium owners. And good news if you're a co-op or condo owner: In addition to having coverage for assessments up to $1,000 (which also exists in the tenants policy), you will have coverage for improvements, alterations and additions made to the real property. The limit for insured perils is $1,000.
- Theft coverage of jewelry, watches and furs doubles to $1,000. Theft coverage for silverware increases from $1,000 to $2,500. You can buy extra protection for valuables if you judge their worth to exceed these amounts (admittedly minor).
- If you're a policyholder with a home business, an important extra: Business property in a residence is now covered for up to $2,500. Off-premise business property is covered for up to $250. Previously, all business property was excluded under your homeowners policy. This coverage extends to you if you free-lance or moonlight at home.
- Coverage for damage to boats and their trailers and equipment is doubled to $1,000. If you're a serious boating enthusiast, it's assumed that you carry additional protection.
- The basic contract now includes $500 coverage on credit cards, forgery and counterfeit money. The new language includes fund transfer cards, too (the cards you use in an automatic teller machine).

Warning: In exchange for this expanded coverage, your deductible rises from $100 to $250. But you can buy back the $100 deductible for an extra amount on your premium.

The new policy also contains language to cover some unusual situations. As an illustration: Previously, volcanic eruption coverage was included in the basic contract in only 10 Western states. Now, volcanic eruption coverage will be in the basic contract — everywhere. I can't bow down in gratitude, I just can't. Where I live in Manhattan, a volcanic eruption is among my truly minor concerns.

Commercial building rising

BOISE (AP) — Residential construction appears down in Idaho again in March, but commercial building shows a gain over last year.

That's how March shapes up in the Idaho Construction Report, a First Security Bank of Idaho publication.

Building permits for 315 homes and other dwelling units in 56 locations totalled about $16.5 million, down almost 28 percent in number and 14.2 percent in value from last March.

That continued a trend this year. For the first three months of 1985, residential construction was 605 units, valued at about $29 million. That's down 36 percent in number and 26 percent in value from the first quarter of 1984.

Construction began in March on a huge resort complex, North Shore Resort Hotel, at Coeur d'Alene. That pushed the value of commercial construction to $25.7 million, more than double the amount of commercial building started in March of 1984.

For the first quarter, commercial projects totalled $30.47 million, up 72.6 percent from last year.

New car sales accelerate in mid-April

The Los Angeles Times

DETROIT — Rebounding from a decline in early April, new-car sales jumped an average of 22.5 percent in the middle 10 days of April, the domestic automakers reported Wednesday.

General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, Volkswagen of America and American Honda all reported sales increases for the April 11-20 period. American Motors, the only domestic manufacturer to report a decline for the period, said that its sales were off an estimated 34.9 percent.

The six manufacturers sold a combined total of 284,490 cars in the most recent period, an increase over the 232,156 cars sold in the same period in 1984. There were nine selling days in the period both this year and last.

The domestic automakers sold an average of 31,610 cars daily in mid-April, the best daily selling rate for the period since 1978, when the daily rate was 32,958.

The seasonally adjusted annual selling rate of 9.3 million was the highest recorded thus far this year. The annual rate for mid-April last year was 7.7 million.

The annual rate is a calculation of the number of cars that would be sold if mid-April's pace were to continue for a full year.

Auto analysts said that the sales pace for the period was exceptionally strong and that they doubted that it would continue at the current pace.

"The sales level for the period can't be sustained," said John Hammond of Data Resources, a Lexington, Mass., economics research company. "Even if the demand were out there, production could not keep up."

Hammond said that the sales numbers were higher than expected for the period. "It is encouraging for the auto industry, especially given that consumer spending in March was off," he added.

Gas company drops request

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mountain Fuel Supply Co. Wednesday withdrew its request to the Utah Public Service Commission for a special reduced rate for U.S. Steel's Geneva Works in Orem, Utah.

Mountain Fuel said in a news release that after submitting the application to the PSC, U.S. Steel switched some of its operations at Geneva to an alternative fuel, reducing sharply the need for natural gas.

The release said the company had endorsed the lower rate sought by U.S. Steel in an effort to keep the steelmaker's purchases at the original 400,000-decatherm level. Mountain Fuel had argued that if it was unable to provide the lower rate and U.S. Steel failed to renew its contract, prices would go up for residential users.

Had the request submitted to the PSC Feb. 6 been granted, the cost of natural gas for residential customers would have risen about 50 cents per year to offset the reduced rate for U.S. Steel.

'Dragon's Blood' slays the competition at annual car show

TWIN FALLS — A blood red 1939 Ford coupe, aptly named "Dragon's Blood," spilled over its competition in the 90th annual Magic Valley Rod and Custom show in Twin Falls to take home five of the 11 special awards offered in the two-day event last weekend.

The show was sponsored by the Magic Valley Early Iron car club and the College of Southern Idaho Judy Club. Exhibitors of the show judge their fellow vehicle owners and their votes establish all of the award winners except for the "people's choice."

The uniquely customized little coupe, Dragon's Blood, is owned by Boyd Walton of Pocatello. It took the show's sweepstakes award, best paint, best Ford, best interior and best engine. It also placed first in it's class — street rod coupes.

Car show attendance voted the people's choice award, not a pretty car, but a chrome laden, persimmon colored freight truck. The Freightliner truck, owned by Steve and Connie Wolters of Kimberly is not just for show. It is driven 150,000 miles annually to pay it's way, but is still a work of art with wire wheels, chrome fuel tanks and everything from a television set to a refrigerator.

Other special awards went to Ruben Gaona of Nampa with a 1957 Chevrolet, judged the show's best Chevrolet award; Kim Mason of Twin Falls, a 1940 Willys, two top honors including "best of the rest" which covers everything other than Fords and Chevrolets, and the special trophy for best engineering; Chris Jancik of Twin Falls, a pearl white 1934 Ford with blue pinstriping, best National Street Rod Association award; Walt and Betty Milden, 1982 Honda motorcycle shown in a full camp scene, best display award.

She still can't see why men like porno

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: This is regarding your answer to "Deceived," the young wife who was upset when she found some girlie magazines her husband had hidden from her. She said that she was a good-looking woman and couldn't understand why her husband would want to look at pornographic filth like that.

I was surprised at your answer. You said, "Please get over the notion that only men with unattractive wives read girlie magazines. What you look like has nothing to do with your husband's desire to look at what you call 'filth.'"

Then you defended the husband's right to read whatever he wanted to, and told the wife she had a lot to learn about why men enjoy looking at stuff like that.

Abby, I don't understand why a happily married man would want to look at pictures of naked women, so I asked my husband, and he said it was normal and natural for men to enjoy pictures of beautiful naked women regardless of what they have at home.

Abby, I consider myself normal, and I have absolutely no desire to look at pictures of naked men, no matter how well-built they are. Why?

— PUZZLED IN CHICAGO

DEAR PUZZLED: Because most women do not respond to the visual the same way men do. (Women respond more to the spoken or written word.)

But let's get something straight: All pictures of partially or fully unclothed women are not pornographic — some are beautiful though erotic, and are considered museum-quality art.

Not having seen the "girlie" magazine in question, I'm unable to make an informed judgment, but let me go on record to say that pictures that portray women as objects to be used, abused, humiliated or degraded in any way are totally unacceptable to me.

DEAR ABBY: I was pleased to note your approval of using "Yes, sir" and "No, ma'am" when addressing people.

I have heard people say, "Don't 'sir' me — I haven't been knighted!" (I ignore it as though it hadn't been said.) Addressing people as sir and ma'am is a matter of simple courtesy and has nothing to do with one's age or station in life.

Thank you, ma'am.

— POLITE IN ST. CHARLES, LA.

DEAR POLITE: You're welcome, sir.

DEAR ABBY: I am an Englishman teaching psychiatry in the Alabama University School of Medicine, and I was prompted to write by the letter from "Bitter and Brokenhearted" (the widow of the smoker who was forced by relatives to go outside in sub-zero weather to smoke and subsequently caught pneumonia and died).

I noticed that you published that letter without comment, judging, no doubt, that the tragic story was comment enough.

Apparently, in the opinion of the relatives with whom the smoker and his wife were staying, smoking is a moral issue and has the status of something close to a crime.

Interestingly, King James I, after whom a version of the English Bible was named, wrote a famous pamphlet titled, "Counter Blast to Tobacco." He would have liked to have made the use of tobacco both sinful and criminal, but in spite of his throne and his title of Defender of the Faith, even King James could not make smoking either a crime or a sin.

Many thanks for your constructive, entertaining and often puzzling column.

— H.O., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DEAR ABBY: It takes a liberal rabbi and broad-minded priest to perform a mixed marriage without going through a lot of red tape. Those in the New York area should investigate the Chapel of the United Nations. It's a beautiful setting!

Elsewhere, inquire at the nearest college or university. A rabbi and a priest can be found to perform the ceremony at a non-denominational chapel — where the dignity and spirituality of both religions are combined. You don't have to be a young college kid to be married in a chapel on a college campus. Anyone of legal age — and up — can get married there.

Winkler found guilty of rape

Buhl man contends he's innocent after jury delivers verdict

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — After deliberating about an hour Thursday, a jury found Michael Albert Winkler guilty of rape for having intercourse with a 14-year-old runaway Feb. 3.

In about half an hour, the same jury found the 34-year-old Winkler of Buhl guilty of being an habitual criminal. The rape conviction was his fifth felony conviction.

In an interview with reporters after the trial, Winkler maintained his innocence and said he would appeal the rape conviction.

"I'm not as bad as everyone makes me out to be. Once everyone gets to know me they know I'm a nice guy," the soft-spoken Winkler told reporters.

The rape and persistent violator charges both carry the maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

Earlier in the day, Winkler took the stand and contradicted the version of the incident the teenage girl told Wednesday.

Winkler said he and a group of people met the girl at an apartment and not as she was walking down a street as she testified the previous day. The girl invited herself into the van in which they were riding.

"She kept trying to come on to me. I kept telling her to back off," Winkler said.

When they reached the 206½ Lois St. residence of John Livingston Jr., the girl gave him and Livingston money to buy LSD for her, Winkler said.

The teen-ager has testified that she loaned money to Livingston for car repairs.

At no time, Winkler said, did he and the girl go to the van where the girl claimed she had been raped and threatened.

"Did you sexually assault her?" defense attorney Robert Galley asked. Winkler said he did not.

Out of the presence of the jury, Twin Falls County Deputy Prosecutor Keith Hutchinson asked Fifth District Judge Daniel Meehl to allow him to ask Winkler about his prior felony convictions to impeach his testimony. Galley, who was acting as a public defender, objected, but Meehl ruled to allow only brief questions.

When the jury returned and under Hutchinson's questioning, Winkler said he previously had been convicted of armed robbery, escape, kidnapping and grand theft.

Winkler also admitted that he lied to the girl that night and told her he lost her money. He told Hutchinson he was telling the truth in court.

The third day of the trial began with testimony from a defense witness, the emergency room physician who examined the teen-ager the night of the alleged rape. Dr. Carl Bontrager said there was evidence that the girl might have had intercourse, but couldn't tell the exact time.

Two other defense witnesses testified the girl has a reputation for being a liar.

In closing arguments, Hutchinson said Galley attempted to attack the girl's story, but other evidence corroborated it. FBI agents testified about the presence of semen on Winkler's pants and the girl's clothing.

Winkler had testified he had sex with his common-law wife in bed the morning of Feb. 3, but Hutchinson asked why the semen stains were on his pants.

Defense witnesses said she was a liar, but not that she had lied about the rape, Hutchinson said.

The state just had to prove Winkler had intercourse with a girl who was under age, he added.

Galley, however, said the girl's story was a bunch of half-truths and "poppycock."

The girl probably had sex, but not with Winkler, the defense attorney said.

There were no signs of force used against the teen-ager and the FBI agents stated that their tests weren't conclusive, he added.

"This is not an innocent little girl. She will do anything to survive," Galley said.

After the jury found Winkler guilty of rape, it returned to the jury room to decide if he was guilty of being a persistent violator because of two prior convictions. Hutchinson presented certificates of a grand-theft conviction in 1970 and armed robbery in 1981, both in California.

Winkler also faces a May 29 trial on a charge of aggravated battery for allegedly shooting a man.

"I'm not worried about it," Winkler said. Pointing to the prosecution, he added, "It ain't going to be so easy the next time."

A canal near a Buhl farm is nothing but manure

Dairy wastes cloud waters

Officals looking for solutions

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Control of dairy wastes, especially during spring run-off, is a long-standing problem in Magic Valley that is now being tackled by a combined agency effort to protect irrigation systems and the area's water resources.

Idaho Department of Health and Welfare environmentalists have been joined by the Environmental Protection Agency. The move will increase personnel available to work with dairies and at the same time provide increased enforcement.

One of the major concerns of the agencies is the large amount of manure chandled into canals and irrigation systems in Magic Valley, especially near Jerome and Buhl.

State environmentalist Russell Renk of Twin Falls said joining forces with EPA is a "step in the right direction," but he offers little hope for an immediate solution to the problem.

There are about 1,000 dairies and feedlots in the Magic Valley, or 40 percent of the state's total. Of these, about 900 have some waste discharge problems, Renk said.

The first step in the joint waste control effort is a survey to determine the number and size of dairies and feedlots established in Magic Valley, their exact locations and their problems. Toward this end, the agencies took advantage of the time and talent of Rich Morrison during the winter.

Morrison is assigned to the Rock Creek water purification project, but could not work on that project during winter.

EPA "borrowed" him, Renk said, and assigned him to conduct an aerial inventory of dairies and feedlots in the area. This has been completed and, Renk said, the photos show several hundred dairies are discharging wastes directly into canals and thus eventually into rivers and streams.

Renk said EPA began issuing dairy and feedlot permits about eight years ago on an individual basis. When permits expired they were not renewed. A new system devised to give EPA better control measures involves issuing general permits to all dairies.

If the dairies fail to comply with the law that prohibits wastes being diverted into irrigation systems, streams or rivers, then the permits can be revoked.

Under Idaho law 18-4301, it is a misdemeanor to allow wastes to go into canals and thus back to rivers and creeks. It is also a violation of Idaho Water Quality Standards, Renk said.

Ted Deahl, manager of the North Side Canal Co. in Jerome, said manure in the canals is an annual problem, growing worse as dairies increase. During winter and spring run-off, many dairies discharge into the North Side Canal System. This creates not only a pollution problem, but fills canals with solids and clogs irrigation structures. Water was turned into irrigation systems about a week ago. It generally takes two to three weeks to flush out the winter collection of wastes.

"The manure clogs the laterals and gates. We have to take heavy equipment in and clean it out so we can turn the irrigation water into the system," he said.

"About all we can do is dig it out, but it's an expensive and unpleasant job" Deahl said. "About our

Former Jerome clerk's fine unpaid, county seeking judgment to collect

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — A motion by Deputy Jerome County Prosecutor Marlene Weed for a judgment against former County Clerk Glenda Belk for failing to pay a $300 fine will be heard May 6 in Fifth District Court in Jerome.

Depending on the court's ruling, Belk could be required to serve a six-month jail sentence, which was withheld two years ago in favor of unsupervised probation.

Weed said Thursday the hearing will be conducted at 10 a.m. in Jerome by Judge George Granata of Burley. Granata presided at the Belk trial in 1982 in which a plea bargain reduced bribery charges to a misdemeanor of filing a false certificate.

The former clerk agreed to resign and pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor charge. She was placed on two-year unsupervised probation and ordered to pay $300, in lieu of completing a withheld sentence of six months in jail and restitution of more than $2,000 in county overcharges.

The motion filed by the Jerome County prosecutor's office seeks enforcement of the jail term and payment of restitution. In addition to costs of county supplies purchased by Belk, the county was required by the court to pay $43,000 for a separate audit, requested by the special prosecutor the county hired to handle the case.

The prosecutor, in an alternative motion, asks that the defendant pay the added cost of supplies and cost of the audit.

The probation period for Belk ran out April 15, and because the fine had not been paid, Weed said, the county moved that the court issue an order of judgment requiring Belk to meet terms of the withheld sentence.

However, because Belk filed a bankruptcy action in the meantime, she informed the court that Jerome county was listed on the action and she therefore felt she did not have to pay the $300 fine.

Weed said Thursday this is a questionable issue, and the May 6 hearing will cover only the motion for imposition of the jail sentence on a basis of probation violation.

In the alternative motion, however, the prosecution asked at the same time for a hearing on restitution of expenses to the county.

Belk was accused two years ago of receiving gifts in exchange for supply purchases made for the county through American Data Products. A complaint against her at that time stated the products cost the county $2,597 more than had supplies been

Everest

Stanley man making attempt

STANLEY (AP) — If all went according to plan, Thursday was the day Stanley resident Kevin Swigert and two other men started an attempt to reach the summit of Mount Everest.

But Swigert's wife, Diane, says she really doesn't know what's happening with a mountain-climbing expedition halfway around the world. It takes three weeks for letters from her hsband to reach her.

Swigert left Stanley in February to join an expedition planning to scale a seldom-climbed ridge on Mount Everest, leading to the summit. Swigert and Jay Smith, South Lake Tahoe, Calif., are leading the attempt.

Swigert, the only Idahoan on the trip, felt good about his chances to reach the summit even before he left Stanley. He was on the advance party that reached Base Camp about March 10.

He mentioned in his last letter that they hoped they would succeed on April 26 — Smith's birthday.

Diane Swigert said it has been tough waiting in Idaho for word on what's happening.

During the time she received no letters, she became frantic and called newspapers, news services and other media outlets.

"It didn't help," she said. "They didn't know any more than I did. It helps having the letters now, but I really will be anxious to find out if the summit attempt is successful."

Adamson's actions questioned in Charboneau testimony

By MARILYN HAUK ESSEX
Special to The Times-News

BOISE — A Jerome County deputy said Thursday that former county prosecutor Dan Adamson told him to throw away evidence that was collected at the home of Marilyn Arbaugh.

Adamson later denied on the witness stand telling Deputy Ernest Coats to throw away a .22-caliber spent casing found near the sheep wagon where Arbaugh's daughters, Tiffnle and Tira, stood for a brief time the day their mother was murdered.

Adamson said instead that he told the deputy he didn't think the spent casing was important because it wasn't found near the body. The sheep wagon was located outside the "alleyway," a passage between a potato cellar and corral where Arbaugh's body was found.

In other testimony, Jerome city police officer Carl Taylor said Jamie Charboneau, who is accused of murder in the case, claimed to have killed Arbaugh because he thought she would kill him.

Testimony was made in the first-degree murder trial of Charboneau, accused of killing Arbaugh, his former wife. He also is being tried for kidnapping and grand theft stemming from Arbaugh's allegations that she was abducted and her car was stolen after she finished work last June 21.

Adamson testified Thursday that Arbaugh once was married to his younger brother, John Adamson.

Coats quoted Adamson as saying the spent casing wouldn't be needed, that it wasn't pertinent to the case and that it could be discarded.

When asked by defense attorney Randy Stoker if the situation were "a little embarrassing," Coats replied, "Yes, it is."

Special prosecutor Marc Haws asked Coats if he normally took orders from the prosecuting attorney rather than the sheriff. "Usually I don't, but that day I did."

Coats said he put the spent casing in a film canister and discarded it after Charboneau's preliminary hearing.

Stoker asked Adamson if the prosecutor considered the spent casing unimportant because Adamson had already decided Charboneau was guilty. "I'm sure that's part of it, yes," Adamson replied.

"Up until the preliminary hearing, the state was in no way aware the defense (of Charboneau) included a .22-caliber pistol," Adamson said.

Charboneau testified in a pre-trial hearing that he saw Tiffnle fire shots at her mother with Arbaugh's .22-caliber pistol.

Tiffnle testified that she inadvertently fired one shot from the pistol the morning her mother was gunned down. That shot was fired next to the sheep wagon, Tiffnle testified earlier.

The Remington rifle purchased by Charboneau that was used to shoot Arbaugh also was a .22-caliber weapon, testimony has shown. Without the spent casing, it can't be determined whether the discarded evidence came from the rifle or pistol.

In other testimony, Taylor, a police officer for the City of Jerome, said Chief Depty Larry Webb asked Charboneau "why he did it" when the two men confronted the defendant in a field the day Arbaugh was shot.

"He said, 'She was going to kill me, so I killed her,'" Taylor quoted Charboneau as saying.

Stoker asked Taylor if possibly Charboneau used the word "shot" instead of "killed." The officer said, "no," adding that his testimony was what he recalled.

State police officer Robert Gaston told the six-man, six-woman jury that the Remington rifle was found in a barley field at El Rancho 93, Arbaugh's rural Jerome County home.

The gun was splattered with blood in a formation called a "blow-back blood splatter," Gaston said. The stain indicated that the rifle was held within an inch of Arbaugh's body when it was fired, he said.

Gaston said officers found the rifle in the barley field by forming a straight line and combing small areas at a time. Had a person wanted to conceal bullets in the field, "it would have been like looking for a needle in a haystack," he said.

In opening statements, Stoker said some of approximately 15 entry wounds in Arbaugh's body had to come from a gun other than the one Charboneau used to shoot her.

Only 14 bullets were missing from ammunition Charboneau purchased with the Remington rifle, Stoker said earlier. When authorities confiscated the rifle, it still had three live rounds, Gaston said.

Waddell dies at Oster Lakes

GOODING — The body of Clifton Waddell, 56, of Buhl, was recovered Wednesday afternoon from the water at Oster Lakes, southeast of Hagerman, after he apparently suffered a heart attack and fell into the lake.

Gooding County sheriff's officers said Waddell was fishing in one of the small lakes Wednesday afternoon. A couple, also fishing in the area, called the sheriff's office at 3:36 p.m. to say they had seen the man fall into the water, but could not reach him in time to assist.

The couple said the man reached for his chest, then fell face first into the water.

Divers from the county search-and-rescue unit recovered the body at about 4:45 p.m. Officers said the coroner ruled death was caused by an apparent heart attack.

Juveniles arrested in burglaries

TWIN FALLS — Two 16-year-old juveniles were taken into custody Wednesday at the Twin Falls police station in connection with eight car burglaries involving losses of $1,100.

Director of Public Safety Tim Qualls said the two were called to the station as a result of investigation into the various burglaries, and arrested following questioning.

He said all of the items taken in the string of burglaries, including of stereo and radio equipment and stereo tapes, have been recovered and will be returned to owners. The burglaries cover a period of several months, some dating back to the first of the year.

Officers said the two suspects, both from Twin Falls, will not be petitioned into court, but will be required to fulfill work service obligations. As far as is known the thefts represent first offenses for both.

only recourse is to take civil action but as yet we haven't done that."

Renk said the situation is also causing increased disease spread among dairy herds and other livestock. The wastes carry disease from one herd to others through the irrigation water they drink.

He said that survey photos and others taken on the ground show discharge going into canals through pipes and trenches. Some, he said, show the manure-colored water running over the canyon rim and into the river below.

Others show the deep greenish brown swirls along the river's edge where manure-filled streams empty into it.

A dairy of 400 cows, he said, can put as much as 10,000 to 20,000 gallons of waste a day into lagoons or into ditches and canals. By the time the dairy animals are washed prior to milking, and the barns hosed out after milking there is a lot of polluted water that has to go somewhere.

Renk said generally dairymen are attempting to correct the problem. Some, he said, are now using solids separators. These consist of a concrete pad that collects the solids as the water passes over it on the way to the lagoon or to form a small lake. Scraper equipment can then go in and clean out the solids.

Many dairymen pump and spray the fluid from their lagoons directly onto farm land while others pump it into trucks and haul it to farm fields where it can be scattered for fertilizer.

"The bottom line of the control issue is the funding," Renk said.

"We have met with county commissioners and have asked the state to help. There is a possibility we could get some funding through the State Water Pollution Control Fund, which comes from a dedicated tax levy and has been used to help finance sewer projects and clean-up projects.

"We are asking individuals, counties, canal companies, highway officials and others to write us about their problems with the pollution. If people feel it is important enough, we will have backing for funding.

"We will try to identify the areas of concern and once that is done, we can try to obtain funding. We need backing from the people, not only for the physical installment, but for the enforcement as well," Renk said.

Renk said both EPA and DHAW are facing continuing budget and personnel cuts, which compounds the problem of seeking a solution and enforcing regulations. With some 1,000 dairies in Magic Valley, one individual could work full time for 10 years before having worked with each individual dairyman.

Most problems are with the larger dairies or older dairies that have expanded.

are set, but the event starts and ends at Smith's Food King parking lot.

Money collected from both walk-a-thons will go to the March of Dimes headquarters to help in research and other measures against birth defects.

Participants in the walk also will receive their rewards in the form of prizes offered for the most money collected. Turning in $35 following the walk will earn the participant an official Walk America t-shirt while $75 brings a choice of a watch, sports bag or Swiss army knife plus a T-shirt. Participants have an opportunity to win an AM-FM digital clock radio, a television set, tennis or fishing equipment, bicycles and even a home computer or VCR set, depending on the amount of revenue raised in the Twin Falls event.

In both walks, everyone collecting and turning in $50 or more receives one chance to win the grand prize of a trip for two to San Francisco for 10 days and one night. Everyone who enters in Twin Falls gets a Big Mac and medium drink from McDonalds, Video West movie coupons and a meal coupon from Skippers.

This year, says Twin Falls Chairman Joel Brillhart, the walk-a-thon goal has been set at $15,000, or just twice what was collected last year.

People of all ages are asked to participate and can obtain sponsor sheets from KART, Z103, McDonald's, all 7-Eleven Stores, KMVT, the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co., and all school offices.

Several Twin Falls area businesses will be sending out teams of walkers, some with their own goals for fund raising. K-Mart employees in Twin Falls have set a $5,000 March of Dimes quota for themselves. Other team efforts that have developed to date include employees of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust, the KMVT news staff and Rax Restaurant.

KART-Z103 radio and KMVT television are joining in sponsoring the annual event.

There will be seven checkpoints along the route that runs between Kimberly Road and Falls Avenue and ends at McDonald's restaurant. Cooperation of local law enforcement agencies has been assured to patrol the walk-a-thon routes for safety.

purchased from local sources.

Former Twin Falls County Prosecutor Harry DeHaan was hired as a special prosecutor in the case and through plea negotiations agreed to accept a guilty plea to a misdemeanor charge.

Weed said a letter was sent to Belk April 12, advising her that the $300 fine still needed to be paid. The letter was returned with a notation that Belk had been advised by DeHaan that including Jerome County in the bankruptcy action no longer obligated her to pay. DeHaan said he did not recall making such a statement.

County officials said that at the time of the investigation and charges against Belk, no charges were brought against American Data Products and officials of the firm agreed to repay Jerome County the overcharges.

However, Weed said this amount also remains unpaid.

At Boise Relays

Magic Valley's best get early test

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

BOISE — Hurdles and relays will be in the van when Magic Valley's top tracksters venture into western Idaho to test themselves against traditional state powerhouses Saturday.

It is time for the Boise Relays, the second of two regular-season meets that allow Magic Valley athletes to gauge themselves in looking toward state competition. Because there are added relays in this meet that disrupt the regular sequence of events, Twin Falls' best idea will come in three weeks when the Bruins entertain the top 13 Class A-1 teams (by enrollment) in the Twin Falls Classic.

The Boise Relays will get under way at Bronco Stadium with some distance and field finals and running preliminaries at 11 a.m. The finals will start at 2 p.m., a departure from the usual evening session that winds things up.

Twin Falls, Jerome and Wood River will be taking basically full teams while some of the others will be taking selected individuals and relays, Valley being the most notable with Todd Schutte in the long sprints and Ryan Clark in the pole vault.

For teams with hopes for high finishes in state, this one marks the end of the "fun" meets where experimentation and event and relay change-ups can be tested. For Twin Falls, the road begins with the Gem State Conference finals next week and it gets progressively tougher after that.

Teams from this area will be looking particularly at the hurdle confrontation between Twin Falls' Doug Zakalyk and Capital's D.D. Harris. They are the state high and intermediate hurdle defending champions, respectively.

Zakalyk takes a time edge into both events at 14.1 seconds and 38.3 seconds against 14.4 and 39.1 for Harris.

Zakalyk says he isn't looking for records, just winning because "I have bad memories of that track. As a sophomore I hit a hurdle and fell and that track peeled all the hide off my shoulder. It is a weird-feeling track for me to run on but I can't explain why."

Because the highs and 100-meter dash are back-to-back, Zakalyk won't be running the sprint, although his 10.88 time ranks with anything in the state. It would have served as a preview for the district finals when Zakalyk will be facing Mountain Home sophomore Maury Toy, who has turned a 10.91.

Twin Falls and Jerome will be anxious for the 880- and 1600-meter relays. It appears Boise and Borah are the strong teams in those events.

"It wasn't until last week (at the Magic Valley Classic) that we had any times better than the best in the Boise area," says Twin Falls Coach Jerry Kleinkopf. "Now I think we have one or two but that's without knowing their times from the (Boise) city meet (run Tuesday night)."

"Our relays for both boys and girls have been such pleasant surprises this year that we're looking forward to running against the Boise area," he added. "Even if we can't win, it will certainly give us some idea of where we can make helpful adjustments."

Jerome Coach Tim Dunne will be getting a look at some of the better A-2 athletes and teams in eastern Idaho. The Tigers have been a state force in that classification for years.

Although the Tigers have lost some relays to Twin Falls this spring, they have been untested in the A-2 division. Similarly, Twin Falls' 3:22.4 in the 1600 last week simply is outstanding and Jerome shouldn't feel disappointed in losing to that, Dunne said. But he believes his 800 relay team can squeeze out a few more feet at 1:31.9.

Twin Falls' distance ace Rod Uribe has seen the Highland competition to the east and now faces a solid western crew, headed most notably by Boise High's Willy Beebe, a double winner

TFBT opens season

This weekend

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

TWIN FALLS — Between 75 and 100 tennis players from the Twin Falls, Burley and Sun Valley areas are expected to take part in this weekend's inaugural event of the local tennis season, the Twin Falls Bank & Trust Membership Tournament.

The tournament serves as the membership drive of the Twin Falls Tennis Association. Players' entry fees double as dues in the TFTA.

Mary Ann Robbins of Twin Falls, last year's women's open singles champion, will return to defend her title. Last year's men's open singles championship match was rained out.

Wood River Valley tennis players Jake Jacoby, Bob Liebman and John Krueger are the best-known names in the field.

"I think we're going to have a bigger turnout this year," said Robbins, who is organizing this year's event. "We seem to be getting a lot more younger players this year, although because the high school people can't compete right now we won't have any juniors' divisions, per se."

Rather than allowing entrants to classify themselves by division, this year's organizers will divide up the tournament according to United States Tennis Association ratings. A 4.0 rates qualifies in the A division, a 3.5 in the B division and a 3.0 in a C division, for men's and women's singles and doubles and for mixed doubles. There will also be men's 35 singles and doubles.

Competition will start Saturday morning at 9 at the Twin Falls High School and Frontier Field courts, with quarterfinals to be completed Saturday night. Semifinals in all events will begin at 9 a.m. Sunday, with the finals scheduled to 11 at Frontier Field.

The TFB&T Tournament will be followed by the Bowladrome Icebreaker tournament in mid-May, The Times-News/Twin Falls Open in mid-June and at least three other tournaments sponsored by various Twin Falls businesses in late June and throughout July. The Idaho Closed Tennis Championships, the unofficial state tournament for Idaho residents, will be played in Twin Falls in early August, with the Twin Falls Closed to follow in late August. The Idaho Open Tennis Championships, the state's biggest, will be played at Sun Valley over Labor Day weekend with the Wilber Ellis Doubles Tournament closing out the Twin Falls tennis season in late September.

McLain gets 23-year term

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Denny McLain, major league baseball's last 30-game winner, was sentenced Thursday to 23 years in prison by a federal judge who chided him for not accepting his conviction on racketeering, extortion and drug-dealing charges.

U.S. District Judge Elizabeth A. Kovachevich cited the former Detroit Tigers pitching sensation's "failure to admit to yourself your own guilt," as well as his involvement with drugs as important factors affecting her decision.

McLain, 41, who sat through most of the proceedings, stood in the packed courtroom as she ordered him to serve eight years each for racketeering, conspiracy and extortion, with the sentences to run concurrently.

Stewart takes Houston lead

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — Payne Stewart, winless the past two years on the PGA tour, fired a 6-under-par 66 that included seven birdies and a lone bogie Thursday to charge into a one-stroke lead over four challengers after the first round of the $500,000 Houston Open.

The touring pros, playing on The Woodland's Tournament Players Course for the first time, recorded 55 sub-par rounds.

The only blemish on Stewart's round over the par-72, 7,042-yard layout came on the final hole when he bogeyed after hitting his second shot into a water hazard in front of the green.

A's bound for Tampa?

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A group of investors seeking a major league baseball team for Tampa is actively pursuing the Oakland A's, two newspapers reported Wednesday.

The Tampa Tribune said the Tampa Bay Baseball Group has begun preliminary talks with A's officials, but that actual negotiations have yet to get underway.

And, Cedric Tallis of the Tampa Bay group told the San Francisco Examiner, "We have been having discussions with the A's on the possibility of acquiring the club with the premise that the team will move here."

Redskins swap No. 1 draft pick for Rogers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins, hoping to bolster the team's aging running back corps, traded their No.1 pick in Tuesday's National Football League college draft for New Orleans Saints' back George Rogers.

Neither team would officially comment on the deal Thursday, however sources on both clubs confirmed the trade. In addition to Rogers, the Redskins also received New Orleans' fifth-, 10th- and 11th-round draft picks.

Both teams had hoped to keep the trade a secret until draft day.

The Redskins' first-round selection going to New Orleans will be the 24th pick overall in the draft.

The deal marks the 12th time in the last 15 years Washington has traded away its first-round pick.

Raft River shows MVC competition some moves in pre-conference meet

By BRAD BRELAND
Times-News writer

MURTAUGH — Raft River did it twice Thursday.

The defending Magic Valley Conference champion Trojans bested the boys' and girls' teams from Hagerman and breezed to a pair of victories in a six-team meet of MVC schools held here.

The Raft River girls cruised to their victory in high fashion by taking every place in the high jump and long jump while capturing the first three places in the 220-yard dash. Hagerman, in a distant second place won three of the four relay events.

Things were a bit different for the Trojan boys. Raft River captured three of the four relay races and placed four runners in the 110 high hurdles.

Oakley's Bruce Strauss was the highlight of the meet as he finished in first in four field events.

Sam Bruhn from Hagerman took both long distance running events.

Raft River's Amy Heaton and Kristeen Keetch and Hagerman's Amy Pugmire each had a pair of wins.

Heaton won the distance events while teammate Keetch captured the long jump and the 220. Pugmire took the hurdle events to pace the Pirates.

Thursday's meet was a tuneup for the MVC finals, which will be held in Jerome on May 9.

Indians, Carey take varying routes to victories in Northside preliminary

CAREY — The Shoshone boys placed first in many of the running events and the Carey girls' team banked on a number of runner-up spots to win a seven-team high school track meet here Thursday.

Charles Sandy paced the Indians with three first places, while the Shoshone Duffin brothers, Kelly and Dorin, each won three events.

The Panther boys' pulled the surprise of the meet taking all four relay events for the first time this season.

It was no surprise that Bliss' Lois Hobdey won the sprints and that Camas County's Margy Lemons won the long distance races. Although Bliss had more first-place finishes, Carey's place points won the team victory.

Thursday's meet was the tuneup for next week's pre-district qualifying event in the Northside Conference.

Edmonton owns Smythe title

Hockey

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (AP) — Wayne Gretzky scored three goals and added four assists Thursday night as the Edmonton Oilers crushed the Winnipeg Jets 8-3 to claim the National Hockey League's Smythe Division title.

Gretzky scored Edmonton's first two goals to wipe out a 1-0 Winnipeg lead in the first period, then set up three consecutive goals as the Oilers swept the best-of-seven divisional final in four straight games.

Two of his goals were scored with Edmonton short-handed — one of them, at 10:31 of the final period — into an empty net after Jets Coach Barry Long pulled goaltender Marc Behrend at 9:20 of the period in favor of a sixth attacker. Behrend was quickly sent back to tend goal for the remainder of the game.

Gretzky's seven-point night equalled his own NHL playoff record set April 17, 1983, when he scored four goals and three assists in a 10-2 victory over the Calgary Flames.

Jari Kurri scored three times for the Oilers — all of them on setups from Gretzky — while Glenn Anderson and Mark Messier also had goals.

Chicago 7
Minnesota 6

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Darryl Sutter's goal 1:56 into the second overtime Thursday night lifted the Chicago Black Hawks to a 7-6 National Hockey League victory over Minnesota and a 3-1 lead over the North Stars in the Norris Division playoffs.

Game 5 of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup series will be played Sunday at Chicago. The winner of that series will play in the Campbell Conference championship series against the Edmonton Oilers, who completed a 4-0 Smythe Division sweep of the Winnipeg Jets with an 8-3 victory Thursday.

Montreal 1
Quebec 1

QUEBEC (AP) — Guy Carbonneau scored a short-handed goal in the second period and Mario Tremblay scored on the power play in the third to help the Montreal Canadiens beat the Quebec Nordiques 3-1 Thursday night and tie their Adams Division final series at two games apiece.

The best-of-seven National Hockey League playoff series shifts back to Montreal for Game 5 on Saturday night.

NY Islanders 6
Philadelphia 2

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Mike Bossy's 82nd Stanley Cup goal, which tied him with Maurice Richard as the National Hockey League's all-time playoff goal-scorer, led the Islanders to a 6-2 victory over the Philadelphia Flyers Thursday night that kept New York's playoff hopes alive.

Bossy also had two assists, putting him in fifth place on the all-time scoring list with 152 points, as the Islanders won their first game against three losses in the Patrick Division final. In the process, the Islanders drove goalie Pelle Lindbergh from the net and avoided being swept in a playoff series for the first time.

Game 5 of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup series will be played Sunday at Chicago. The winner of that series will play in the Campbell Conference championship series against the Edmonton Oilers, who completed a 4-0 Smythe Division sweep of the Winnipeg Jets with an 8-3 victory Thursday.

Sutter tapped in a rebound of a shot by Tom Lysiak, who stole a pass from Minnesota's Neal Broten.

in the city meet Tuesday.

In the girls' division, Borah generally provides the team or individual to beat. The Lion girls won the city meet handily. Here again Twin Falls will be looking at hurdles and relays. Amber Welty could be a double winner in the 100-meter hurdles and high jump. Her intermediate times indicate a place but favorites will come from the west.

Coach Duane Stands believes the girls can contend in all four relays but probably will pay most attention in the 800, 1600 and medley. The Bruins' strength appears to be in long sprinters. MaiLinn Miller, an anchor on three of those relays, will visit the long jumping pit she won state in last year and sophomore Eva Talamantes will be looking at a strong group of sprinters although her 200- and 400-meter times put her in the thick of things.

Jerome' Laura Jensen will be a contender in whatever distances she's entered and Twin Falls will be watching freshman Jenny Hannah for possible state points later. But the one to watch here apparently is Meridian's Valerie Vail.

Dodgers top San Diego, take over NL West lead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rick Honeycutt earned his first victory of the season and Mike Marshall and Mike Scioscia drove in two runs apiece as the Los Angeles Dodgers stopped the San Diego Padres 6-3 Thursday night.

Honeycutt, 1-1, checked the Padres on four hits and one run in eight innings to help the Dodgers move into first place in the National League West. They lead the Cincinnati Reds by a half-game.

The Padres scored their first run in the opening inning when Steve Garvey doubled after Honeycutt had retired the first two Padre batters and Kevin McReynolds followed with a run-scoring single.

Marshall drove the first pitch thrown by loser Eric Show, 2-1, over the right-center field fence in the bottom of the second to tie the game at 1-1.

It remained tied until the sixth when the Dodgers scored three runs, the first on run-scoring single by Al Oliver and the other two on Scioscia's two-out, bases-loaded bloop single down the right-field line.

The Dodgers got their final two runs in the seventh off reliever Luis DeLeon on run-scoring single to left by Pedro Guerrero and Marshall's fielder's choice grounder.

Niedenfuer gave up a run-scoring single to Terry Kennedy and a sacrifice fly to Carmelo Martinez before shutting the door on the Padres in the ninth.

San Francisco 7
Cincinnati 3

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chili Davis drove in four runs with two homers and a sacrifice fly and Jose Uribe scored the go-ahead run from second on an error by Pete Rose as the San Francisco Giants beat the Cincinnati Reds 7-3 Thursday.

Uribe broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning when Rose, Cincinnati's player-manager, dropped an infield pop fly.

Tom Hume, 0-1, who came in to pitch for the Reds in the seventh, hit the leadoff batter, Brad Wellman. Uribe then grounded to first baseman Rose, whose throw to second forced Wellman.

After Giants pitcher Mark Davis popped out on a sacrifice attempt, Uribe went to second on a balk by Hume. Dan Gladden then hit the popup which Rose, bothered by the sun, dropped about 40 feet from home plate.

Mark Davis, 1-1, got the victory in relief of Jim Gott, who did not allow a hit until opposing pitcher Frank Pastore doubled to left-center field in the sixth.

Montreal 4
St. Louis 2

MONTREAL (AP) — Andre Dawson drove in two runs, one of them with a homer that triggered a two-run fourth inning, to lead the Montreal Expos to a 4-2 victory Thursday over the St. Louis Cardinals.

With one out in the fourth, Dawson hit a 1-2 pitch by Danny Cox, 1-1, into the left-field seats, his third homer of the year and the Expos' first hit of the game. Dan Driessen then doubled to right and scored one out later when Tim Wallach singled to center, giving the Expos a 3-2 lead.

Atlanta 3
Houston 2

HOUSTON (AP) — A throwing error by shortstop Dickie Thon allowed the tie-breaking run to score and Terry Harper's run-scoring single capped a two-run 10th inning, leading the Atlanta Braves over the Houston Astros 3-2 Thursday night.

Brad Komminsk scored from first base on an infield single by Dale Murphy and an error by Thon, snapping a 1-1 tie. Murphy's one-out single careened off the glove of third baseman Phil Garner and was fielded by Thon, who threw wildly to first in an attempt to pip Murphy.

Orioles commandeer AL East as Tigers lose again

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rookie Ken Dixon said he was glad to "break the ice" with his first major-league victory by three-hitting the Cleveland Indians in Baltimore's 7-1 victory Thursday night.

But the 24-year-old right-hander prefers to count the victory as the first in what he hopes will be a long string.

"That (first major-league win) is what you play your whole life for," said Dixon, who walked two and struck out six. "The first one is always nice to break the ice, but now I'm just looking to improve on it and hope that it will be a good sign of the things to come. I just rate it as a win and I want to look at it and concentrate on my next start."

Dixon, who was 0-1 in two starts last year and did not have a decision in his only previous appearence this season, allowed only one hit over the first eight innings.

The Orioles' victory, combined with Detroit's 11-7 loss to Milwaukee, put Baltimore in first place by one-half game in the American League East.

California 3
Seattle 0

SEATTLE (AP) — Mike Witt, who pitched a perfect game on the final day of the 1984 season, fired a three-hitter for his first 1985 victory and Bobby Grich homered as the California Angels defeated Seattle 3-0 Thursday night, handing the Mariners their fifth consecutive setback and ninth in the last 10 games.

Milwaukee 11
Detroit 7

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ted Simmons smacked a grand slam home run with two out in the bottom of the ninth as the Milwaukee Brewers scored five times in each of the last two innings to erase a six-run deficit and defeated the Detroit Tigers 11-7 Thursday night.

Minnesota 5
Oakland 4

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Kirby Puckett greeted newly acquired Oakland reliever Tom Tellmann with a game-winning single with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning Thursday night to give the Minnesota Twins a 5-4 victory over the A's.

New York 5
Boston 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Phil Niekro scattered five singles over 7⅔ innings and Don Baylor's RBI double snapped a 1-1 tie in the third inning as the New York Yankees broke a five-game losing streak against Boston with a 5-1 victory over the Red Sox Thursday night.

Ketchum wins points, loses to Wood River

Prep tennis

HAILEY — Ketchum/Sun Valley Community School won the majority of matches, but Wood River took the victory here Thursday in a Class B high school tennis dual meet.

The Wolverines won 7-5, taking advantage of three matches which KSV was forced to forfeit because it had too few players. Using players who had already played other matches, the Cutthroats won two of them.

In those "exhibition" matches, Jack Weeks and Andrew Smith of KSV defeated Brad Jacques and Robert Kolb, 6-2, 7-6, and Chuck Cadiente and Jeff Fairfield of Wood River defeated Harry Weeks and Gray Ottley of KSV, 6-4, 6-3, in a pair of boys' doubles matches. In girls' doubles, Emily Dirksen and Jennifer Pinkerton of the Community School beat Kim Kreitler and Jennifer Copeland, 6-1, 7-5.

Bird bombs Cavaliers

Pro basketball

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Larry Bird shook off the effects of a painful right elbow to fire in 34 points Thursday night, including four critical free throws in the final minute that gave the Boston Celtics a 117-115 victory over Cleveland and a 3-1 triumph over the Cavaliers in a first-round National Basketball Association playoff series.

"I wasn't really hampered by the elbow at all," said Bird, who missed the Celtics' loss to the Cavaliers on Tuesday because of the persistent bursitis and bone chips in the elbow. "Once I got in the game, I think the excitement drove me over the limit."

Bird hit seven of eight free throws in the final quarter, the last two snapping a 115-115 tie with 23 seconds to play.

He also led the Celtics with 14 rebounds and seven assists.

"Bird came through from the time he came out on the court," said Boston Coach K.C. Jones. "I think the elbow was bothering him a little, but he's a gutty person."

Cleveland, which committed 40 personal fouls to 28 for Boston, missed three shots at winning or tying in the final seconds. John Bagley missed badly on a three-point attempt, Mark West failed on a tip-in attempt and World B. Free's three-pointer was blocked by Dennis Johnson, who grabbed the ball as time ran out.

"He's an integral part of their offense, so he's going to get his numbers," Johnson said of Free. "So I was satisfied with the block."

The Cavaliers, who acquitted themselves well in their first playoff series in seven years, led 66-63 at the half but fell behind 94-89 as Robert Parish hit eight points in the final 2:05 of the third period.

Johnson scored to open the final period, opening up a 96-89 Celtics' lead, their largest of the game.

Dance troupe to be in Hailey

Performers onstage tonight

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

HAILEY — The West Coast's most highly acclaimed modern dance troupe will perform in Hailey tonight to help celebrate National Dance Week.

The Margaret Jenkins Dance Company of San Francisco will perform three dances in the show sponsored by the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities.

The performance begins at 8 p.m. in the Wood River High School Auditorium. Tickets are on sale at the Sun Valley Center Gallery and the Chapter One Bookstore in Ketchum and at Gemini Art in Hailey.

Tickets cost $7 for general admission, $10 for reserved seating, $5 for students and $25 for patrons. Ticket information is available at 622-9371.

From time to time, choreographer Margaret Jenkins has been called the "matriarch of San Francisco dance," "the mother of California postmodern dance," and "the leading West Coast dance revolutionary."

A native of San Francisco, Jenkins lived for a time in New York City to study at the Juilliard School under America's top dance masters.

She returned to San Francisco 15 years ago to form her own company and has continued her work to the acclaim of dance critics who have reviewed her performances across the United States and in Europe.

In 1980, she received a Guggenheim fellowship for her choreography.

Jenkins' work is complex and filled with energy, critics say.

Jack Anderson, dance critic for the New York Times, opened his review of Jenkens's performance of "First Figure," one of the performances scheduled for Hailey, as follows:

"Margaret Jenkins's dances resemble puzzles without solutions and the more one tries to figure them out, the more they puzzle. Although they at first appear to be abstract, their patterns often come to seem visible manifestations of some psychic drama. But just as one grasps a clue, the patterns change."

Jenkins's choreography in "First Figure" is overlayed with the poetry of Michael Palmer, who has collaborated with her on several works.

Anderson described Palmer's words in the show as "ghostly." He said, "Murmuring voices delivered cryptic messages about such things

Sir Alfred Hitchcock's visage, left, inspired the drawing that appeared with his classic TV show of the '50s and '60s

Hitchcock rises from grave

Master of macabre to appear in remakes of old TV shows

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES — Goooood eee-vun-ing. Tonight's story is about the well-known, portly director who reaches out from the beyond to give us four tales of the bizarre.

That's how the late Alfred Hitchcock might have put his upcoming return to prime time.

To the tune of Gounod's "Funeral March of a Marionette," the director would step up to the famous silhouette, turn and introduce the remakes of episodes from his classic 1955-65 series ("Alfred Hitchcock Presents" and "The Alfred Hitchcock Hour.")

Hitchcock became as famous for his droll introductions and deft putdowns of the show's commercials as for the shows themselves, which usually ended with an O. Henry-like twist. The four half-hour episodes that make up the NBC movie "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" are new versions of episodes from the series.

But the introductions will be real Hitchcock, vintage Hitchcock. The only difference is that the original black and white film has been converted to color by means of computerized spectography.

The two-hour broadcast, which NBC will show Sunday, May 5, was not available for pre-review. A similar series, "Twilight Zone," was made into a feature film, but it failed to capture the zest and flavor of the Rod Serling series.

Tippi Hedren, who starred in two Hitchcock theatrical movies, "The Birds" in 1963 and "Marnie" in 1964, appears in a segment called "A Man from the South."

Miss Hedren was a New York model when Hitchcock saw her doing a television commercial.

"I got a call from the studio asking me to come by because a producer was interested in me," she recalled. "I didn't know it was Hitchcock. Nobody would tell me who it was. Finally, an agent said Hitchcock was offering me a contract if I would agree to the conditions. I signed.

"I thought I would appear on 'Alfred Hitchcock Presents.' It was an enormous surprise when he told me I would be starring in 'The Birds.'"

"A Man from the South" also stars John Huston as the gambler and Steven Bauer as the young man who bets that his cigarette lighter will light 10 times in a row. If it doesn't, he loses his little finger. Steve McQueen and Peter Lorre starred in the 1960 original. Kim Novak (Hitchcock's "Vertigo") and Melanie Griffith (Miss Hedren's daughter and the star of "Body Double") also star in the remake.

The other parts are "Incident in a Small Jail," starring Ned Beatty; "An Unlocked Window," starring Annette O'Toole, and "Bang! You're Dead," starring Bianca Rose.

"My role as the Las Vegas waitress is really just a cameo," said Miss Hedren. "Basically, I'm just an onlooker. My scene is with Melanie, which is what made it intriguing for me."

She said her two movies with Hitchcock were an education in filmmaking.

"I sat in all kinds of meetings with him," she said. "He was certainly a man who knew what he wanted on the screen. Everything was meticulously planned out, and he never had to shoot anything to cover himself."

Miss Hedren worked with another Hollywood legend, Charlie Chaplin, in "Countess from Hong Kong." "The difference was that Hitchcock held court on the set. He cracked jokes," she said. "Chaplin was extremely serious. He acted out each part."

She also starred in the 1973 movie "The Harrad Experiment," but after that an interest in animals took up most of her time. She and her former husband, Noel Marshall, spent five years making "Roar," about big cats. Her passion for the cats also led her to write a book that Simon & Schuster will publish this summer.

Council regroups, seeking members

TWIN FALLS — After four years of inactivity, the Magic Valley Arts Council is regrouping and seeking new members. New officers of the council are John Haux, president; Bob Brailsford, vice president; Steve Nielson, treasurer; and Beverly Hackney and Julie Haux, secretaries.

According to John Haux, the short-term goal of the new council will be to publish and distribute a newsletter on arts activities in the Magic Valley. "We're not getting the maximum amount of participation at events because of overlap," Haux says. "When schedules clash, events don't get full participation. We hope the newsletter will help prevent that."

Haux says the purpose of the council is to encourage everyone to support all the arts: visual, performing and other aspects. "There's so many good things going on," he says. "We hope to maximize participation."

Haux says that the council is already moving ahead and that a new logo has been designed by Twin Falls artist Charlotte Killfoyle. Also, the council is co-sponsoring a reception at Herrett Museum for the exibition, "We Came to Where We Were Supposed to Be: Folk Art of Idaho."

"Some of the major organizations wanted the council to get going again, including the Northside Playhouse, Dilettantes, Magic Valley Chorale and Junior Musical Playhouse," he says.

"We plan to revitalize it (MVAC) and change some of the tactics. It used to be totally a service organization where now it will be service but also independent.

Haux says the council will be supported by donations, any grants available, and through memberships. An individual associate non-voting membership can be gained with a $5 donation, standard voting organizational membership for $20 and a business associate or civic group non-voting membership for $25 a year.

"The principal core of our group is art organizations and artists," he says, "but we want others in the community to join, too. We think a good, healthy art organization in the community is necessary.

Symphony sets 'pops' for concert

TWIN FALLS — For its second annual pops concert, the Magic Valley Symphony will play popular favorites in the festive atmosphere of the Holiday Inn convention center May 3 at 8 p.m.

The large room will be decorated for the occasion, snack foods will be provided, and beverages may be purchased before the concert and during intermission.

Scheduled music includes selections from "West Side Story," "Star Wars Medley," "Carmen," "The Stars and Stripes Forever," and "The Sleeping Beauty Waltz."

According to business manager Patty Hadley, the symphony's new logo will be unveiled. Its designer is the winner winner out of 60 entrants in the logo contest. The winner is to be presented with $100.

Hadley says College of Southern Idaho Music Camp scholarships will also be announced during the evening and that the scholarships are being awarded by the symphony in memory of Roma Messman, a founding member of the organization.

She cautions that, because of limited space, only 100 seats are still available to the general public. While trustees, sponsors and patrons will be admitted with their season passes, general admission is $5 adults, $3 students.

'Just Taggin' Along' will be one of the featured quartets

Adelines show has Heartfelt Feelings

TWIN FALLS — "Heartfelt Feelings," entertaining music sung barbershop style, will be the theme of this year's Sweet Adelines annual show May 4, 8 p.m. at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium.

Featured entertainers include "Just Taggin' Along," a quartet from Bozeman, Montana, and "Grandmas Four," representing the Twin Falls chapter. The Bozeman group consists of Darlyne Haynes, Melanie Mundt, Erma Hesse and Tina Salisbury. Forming the local group is Darleen Porter, Maxine Trout, Betty Armga and Laverne Koutnick.

Also on the agenda are the dance team of Pam and Kim Nielsen of Twin Falls and the Euskadio Basque Dancers of Gooding.

Local publicity chairman Jaunita Upton says that "Just Taggin' Along" is a "polished group" that has spent many hours developing their routine which is presented at shows around the Northwest.

According to Upton, the Sweet Adelines has over 40,000 members nationwide, broken down into local chapters that offer their talent for entertainment at civic events and charitable functions.

"They're just a nice group of people who like to sing together," she says, explaining that the organization is not composed of professionals, but, rather of women who can learn to sing close harmony.

In fact, the Sweet Adelines, which organized its first chapter in Tulsa, Oklahoma in 1945, successfully lifted four-part barbershop harmonizing out of the male realm and adapted it to the feminine voice.

Inviting women from throughout the U.S. to compete at Tulsa in a quartet contest powered the organization to national, then international scale with members now hailing from all over the North American continent, the Canal Zone and Europe.

Tickets for Saturday's performance are $4 adults, $3 senior citizens, and are available at Pennywise Hallmark, Ann's Hallmark, Sullivan's Music, Warner Music, Music Center and Mr. Postman in Twin Falls, Jerome Department Store, Flier Senior Citizen Center, Kimberly Drug, Security Title in Gooding and Sattgast's in Buhl. Tickets will also be available at the door or by contacting any Sweet Adeline.

Academy to offer jazz, folk concerts

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — Holding to its tradition of presenting a broad spectrum of the performing arts, the Renaissance Academy of the Arts has slated improvised jazz by John Northrop and Jeff Rue for Sunday at 2:30 p.m. followed by the Irish folk singing and humor of Redmond O'Connel Wednesday 8 p.m.

Northrup, a Wisconsin native, and Rue of San Diego, bring years of experience with them to Sunday's performance. Northrup has performed with Richard Daws, Thad Jones and Freddie Hubbard, while Rue was a studio bassist in San Diego and Los Angeles for 15 years. He has performed with both the Woody Herman Band and with Elvis Presley.

Their program, "Play as You Go," will feature improvised music with guitar and accoustic bass.

O'Connell grew up in Lancashire, England where, at the age of 17, he says he found his folk roots while building roadways with a 14 pound hammer. Then, after going to sea for six years, he settled in the San Francisco Bay area where he started his own folk club, "The Waterfront," which featured local, national and international performers.

O'Connel has performed with the Bay Area trio, "Isles of Prydain," as well as 12 years of solo performances exhibiting his specialty of rarely heard stories and poetry of working class life in earthy and humorous tones.

He points out that his material is drawn from traditional and contemporary British and Irish sources including industrial folklore, music hall and songs of the sea.

O'Connell describes his voice as natural bass and says he likes to sing with or without accompaniment of banjo, guitar or zob stick. Attendance is required to find out what that latter, pseudo-instrument might be.

Suggested donations for either performance is $5 adults, $3 students.

Ann Jillian wears her Red Queen costume for shooting

Ann Jillian back after mastectomy

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP) — A buoyant, beaming Ann Jillian returned Thursday to complete her role as the Red Queen in "Alice in Wonderland" less than two weeks after surgery for a double mastectomy.

"All I can say is that I'm incredibly happy to be here," said Miss Jillian as she watched Carol Channing and Harvey Korman go through rehearsals on a make-believe chess board on Stage 15 at the MGM-UA Studios. They play the White Queen and White King.

Miss Jillian, 35, underwent surgery April 12 for breast cancer at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center. The actress said she left the hospital last Friday with "a clean bill of health" from her doctors.

"I have a very positive attitude," she said, explaining her reason to return to work right away.

Miss Jillian said she had worked only a few days on Irwin Allen's all-star, four-hour production of the Lewis Carroll fantasy for CBS when doctors detected the cancer. She said they recommended immediate surgery.

Wearing red stockings, red shoes and a robe, she watched her double go through a rehearsal for her Thursday morning. Later, Miss Jillian would don a crown and a long red costume that would turn her into a chess piece.

She was due to work only one day this week. Next week, she will return for two days for her musical number with Miss Channing.

On May 5 she flies to Dallas to appear with Bob Hope at a benefit performance. In July she begins work on a syndicated version of "It's a Living," a show she starred in several seasons ago for ABC.

"I've received so many inspirational messages and letters and Mass cards praying for me," she said. "I'm a very sentimental kind of person. If I didn't take a break now and then from reading them I'd have been crying. Not out of sorrow but with joy for the sentiment and feelings. I received so many letters from other people who've had cancer telling me not to worry. I was going to be the same girl afterward."

'Killing Fields' has big effect on Thai audiences

The Los Angeles Times

BANGKOK, Thailand — "The Killing Fields," the Academy Award-nominated film account of Khmer Rouge terror in Cambodia and of the relationship between an American journalist and his Cambodian aide, opened this week in Bangkok.

Just beyond 100 miles from the Cambodian border, where Khmer Rouge and non-Communist guerrillas are fighting a Vietnamese army, a crowd of modishly dressed Thais filed into the Villa Theater, chattering in expectation. It was a somber group that left two hours later, drying tears and talking in hushed tones about the anguish that has befallen their Southeast Asian neighbor.

The film has a strong political effect on the Thais, who are concerned that fighting in the region will spill over into their country.

"It's hard to think about, and it's so close," said Jongkolnee Sangngampal, a young banker who had seen the film.

The story covers the time from the Communist Khmer Rouge takeover in Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, in April 1975 to the Vietnamese invasion of December 1978.

It depicts the experiences of New York Times correspondent Sydney Schanberg, who stayed on after the fall of Phnom Penh, and Dith Pran, his Cambodian colleague, and of their separation when Schanberg left the country and Pran struggled to survive the horrors of Khmer Rouge rule.

The audience at the Villa laughed nervously when a fading passport photo foils an attempt by Western journalists to get Pran out of the country, gasped in revulsion at scenes of Khmer Rouge brutality, murmured in shock when teen-age Khmer Rouge soldiers uproot tomato plants that Pran had planted at a Khmer Rouge work camp.

When it was over, the Thais shuffled out onto the streets of their busy, Westernized city.

"Now it's time for some chicken tom yum," said one young Thai, seemingly reassuring his friends that the Thais could still get a bowl of hot soup, whatever was happening 100 miles to the east.

Movie released on anti-taping device

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A home video company announced Tuesday it will release the movie "The Cotton Club," using a "landmark breakthrough" in anti-piracy devices that causes copies to deteriorate.

"Piracy is the single biggest threat to our industry, and for years we've been investigating anti-piracy devices," said Andre Blay, chairman of Embassy Home Entertainment.

Blay said he considered the process developed by Macrovision a "landmark breakthrough for the video industry and for copyright holders."

The system uses a process that maintains the superior picture quality of the original cassette or disc but causes considerable picture deterioration in copies, said Victor Farrow, chairman of the San Jose-based Macrovision.

Blay said potential pirates who rent cassettes can no longer make duplicates to sell or for collections.

The revised five-category system of the voluntary film industry rating program is now as follows:

G: General Audiences, all ages admitted.

PG: Parental guidance suggested. Some material may not be suitable for children.

PG-13: Parents are strongly cautioned to give special guidance for children under 13. Some material may be inappropriate for young children.

R: Restricted, under-17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian.

X: No one under 17 admitted.

New Prince album nears '60s sounds

By RICHARD HARRINGTON
The Washington Post

Those millions of Prince fans who started rushing record stores this week for his 7th record — 3 million of them have been shipped — will undoubtedly be surprised or confused by "Around the World in a Day."

Surprised because the album is so thoroughly different from "Purple Rain" and confused because it seems to abandon "Purple Rain's" 1980s dance-floor esthetic for a '60s-derived sound.

It's an avowedly psychedelic album. The cover, the music, the lyrics, the typeface, the very vibe of it provide "Around the World in a Day" with the same richness, the same sonic depth, the same ambition and even the same unevenness as the Beatles' "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band." If nothing on the album approaches the brilliance and passion of "When Doves Cry," there are many exquisite moments to obscure the occasional overreaching.

"Around the World in a Day" (Warner Bros. 25286-1) was completed before Prince announced that he was forsaking live performance, and the album ends with a typically enigmatic dialogue between the sudden star and God. The song, "Temptation," was featured in some of Prince's concerts and is a discourse on the joys thereof.

"I'm talking about the kind of temptation that'll make you do things, I'm talking about sexual temptation," Prince confesses in a spoken dialogue. "You have to want it for the right reasons," counsels a lordly voice.

"I'm sorry, I'll be good," says Prince. "This time I promise. Love is more important than sex. I understand. I have to go now. I don't know when I'll return. Goodbye."

The sin and salvation dichotomy has marked Prince's work for years. "Temptation" itself is heavy-metal blues somewhere between Jimi Hendrix and Blue Cheer. It's the hardest song on the album, and a decided contrast to what precedes it, "The Ladder," a gospel song that is half narration, half exultation. It is also one of two songs on the album Prince cowrote with his father, John L. Nelson. These songs suggest that the clash between spiritual and sexual compulsions has provoked a transcendent obsession: "Everybody's looking for the ladder ... everybody's looking for the answers ... U have 2 climb all of the steps in between."

Not all of "Around the World's" nine songs carry that much baggage, though there is an almost naive optimism to some of them. The title cut, which opens the record, is a Middle-Eastern tinged variant on the Beatles' "Tomorrow Never Knows," with Prince's invitation to float downstream being: "Open your heart, open your mind- A train is leaving all day- a wonderful trip through our time- and laughter is all u pay." The exuberant rhythms and the song's instruments (oud, cello, finger cymbals) create a pop structure as radically different as "When Doves Cry."

The invitation to travel is, of course, different: what the Beatles offered was a passive process of self-evolution and what Prince offers is Prince as conductor on his particularly purple magical mystery tour.

The next stop is the irresistibly lilting "Paisley Park," as identifiable a neighborhood as "Penny Lane" or "Strawberry Fields," with Prince sounding uncannily like John Lennon trying to single-handedly revive Haight-Ashbury's Summer of Love ("Admission is easy, just say u believe and come to this place in your heart-Paisley Park is in your heart.")

"Raspberry Beret" ends the Beatle strains with some string section undercurrents that show its connections to both "Doves" (the rhythm) and "Take Me With U" (the flowing melody). Prince even gets in a subtle nod to Bob Dylan and the Velvet Underground in the middle verse.

To these ears, the album's best song is sandwiched between the psychedelic pastiches. "Condition of the Heart," on which Prince plays all the instruments and overlays some vocals, is a gorgeous introspective ballad about missed communications and lost love. His voice has a heart-rending blueness that sometimes gets overwhelmed by his material; here it is gently buffeted by piano and self-sustained harmony, a melancholy instrument delivering its bittersweet realizations.

One of the more interesting songs on "Around the World" is "America," which appears to be the kind of patriotic statement that even a president could get behind. The chorus echoes "America the Beautiful" and points to both the power of God and the promise of its children concluding, "America, America, keep the children free."

'Generation Gap Dance' set tonight

TWIN FALLS — The 16th annual "Generation Gap Dance" is slated for tonight from 7-10 p.m. in the Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School Gym.

The "Gap Dance" is a yearly tradition started as a way of bringing parents and students together. Parents are especially invited to this dance to exchange dances and share an evening of fun.

The theme for the dance, "Changing Times and Changing Tunes," was submitted by Darren Kyle, and disc jockey Chris Kinsel will be on hand to play music spanning the 1950s through 1980s. A special lip sync contest will be held during intermission with a $50 prize to be awarded for the best performance.

There will also be a drawing held from the raffle tickets sold at the dance with the winner receiving a weekend in Sun Valley. Then the PTSA will award special prizes to the theme winner and to the students whose art posters were selected as winners.

Chosen for grand prize is Poma Keopanya; 9th grade is Mindi Gilbert; 8th grade is James O'Donnell, and 7th grade is Krista Barnes.

THE ACES®

BOBBY WOLFF

"Life can only be understood backwards; but it must be lived forwards."

— Soren Kierkegaard.

Most who lose today's game will recognize where they lost the way. It's always easier to see the winning play after the game is gone.

West led the diamond ace and continued with the king, which South ruffed. A club was led to dummy and a trump finesse lost to West's king. West led a heart to East's king and East returned a diamond. West's trump 10 was then promoted to the setting trick. Where did South go wrong?

On a good day, South would make a doubled overtrick. The trump finesse would work and South would lose only two red tricks. However, West's double should have been a warning for South.

At trick two, instead of ruffing, South should discard his losing heart. This play is a communications-cutting play and denies the defenders a needed entry. Later, when the trump finesse loses to West's king, West has no way to reach East's hand for the vital diamond lead. Instead of one down, South scores his doubled game.
